NORTH KOREAN LEADERS IMPOSTERS

South Korean Reveals Kim, Nam Borrowed Names of Heroes

SEOUL (AP)—Marshal Kim Il Sung and Gen. Nam Il, the two men who emerged as kingpins in the newly-purged North Korean Communist regime, were revealed today to be "fantastic imposters" who borrowed their names from well-known North Koreans of years ago.

The information came from a South Korean intelligence officer with excellent connections in North Korea.

Kim's role as an imposter who borrowed the name of a North Korean hero who fought the Japanese during the occupation of Korea has been known for some time.

But for the first time it was revealed that Nam Il, chief Red negotiator in the truce talks at Panmunjom, also borrowed the name of a prominent North Korean.

Here is the story as detailed by the intelligence officer: Kim's real name was Kim Sung Joo. He was born 42 years ago in a small village near the Red capital of Pyongyang, the son of an anti-Japanese nationalist.

During the Second World War Kim commanded a Korean army corps that fought alongside the Russians.

In the battle of Leningrad, he won special recognition from Stalin.

Kim arrived at Nam-hi, his birthplace, in September, 1945, carrying secret instructions from Stalin on how to Communize Korea.

He adopted the name of Kim Il Sung, a Korean patriot who had been fighting the Japanese as a guerrilla in Manchuria.

The real Kim Il Sung was then about 33 years old; the imposter about 34.

In October, 1945, the bogus Kim was introduced as a "victorious general" to more than 200,000 North Koreans assembled at a parade ground in Pyongyang.

The story of Nam Il's life revealed that his real name was Kim Chang Man. He now is about 47. He was born in a small Korean village near Pyongyang.

Nam Il was propaganda chief of the North Korean Labor Communist party until he was appointed chief truce delegate for the Reds in July, 1951.

He was not a general. He appeared at the Kaesong and Panmunjom truce negotiations first under a title of lieutenant-general and later as a full general.

The real Nam Il is a man about 50, trained in Russia. He was president of a Communist college in Pyongyang and also an instructor at the Kim Il Sung University there.

The real Kim Il Sung now is reported dead. Nothing could be learned about the status or whereabouts of the original Nam Il.

been left behind, sentenced to jail for terms up to three years by the Reds on such charges as "instigating against peace."

U.S. State Secretary Dulles warned the Communists Tuesday that the UN command would not return Red captives convicted of crimes "until we know the attitude of the Communists toward ours." He said the UNC wanted all PWs returned.

However, Peiping radio said the Geneva Convention provides that prisoners facing "criminal proceedings for an indictable offense . . . may be detained until the end of such proceedings, and, if necessary, until the completion of the punishment. The same shall apply to prisoners . . . already convicted."

Third Canadian PW Gets Release Friday

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Another 400 prisoners of the Communists became free men at this dusty village today even as the Reds warned ominously that they have the right to hold back Allied prisoners facing or serving jail terms.

The Reds also disclosed that a third Canadian will be among the 409 Allied prisoners to be exchanged Friday. The first two Canadians were Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., and Gnr. Orval Jenkins of Hamilton and Toronto.

Prisoners freed today in the ninth day of the PW exchange were 75 Britons, 75 Americans and 250 South Koreans.

Meanwhile, Red China's warning backed stories from returning prisoners that buddies had

540 Million Bushel Wheat Crop Forecast

3rd Straight Bumper Harvest for Canada

WINNIPEG (CP)—Western Canada in the next six weeks will harvest its third consecutive bumper wheat crop, slightly more than 540,000,000 bushels, if the weather remains good, the Winnipeg Free Press and Tribune preliminary estimates agreed today.

The Prairie grain picture was hampered at the outset as spring seeding was delayed by heavy rains in many areas until late in June. However, remarkable progress has been made in the last six weeks.

The Free Press predicts a wheat crop of 542,000,000 bushels, exceeded only by last year's record 664,000,000 bushels and 1928's 545,000,000.

The Tribune, however, calls for a wheat crop of 547,000,000 bushels, which would make it the second largest in history.

The Free Press says wheat will go 22.6 bushels an acre this year, compared with 26 in 1952 and the 10-year average 1943-52 of 17 bushels.

If prospects are realized, wheat production on the Prairies will be 1952 figures in brackets: Manitoba 45,000,000 (57,000,000) bushels; Saskatchewan 353,000,000 (435,000,000), and Alberta 144,000,000 (172,000,000).

The Free Press says coarse grains also are expected to show heavy yields, with production of all grains totalling 1,119,000,000 bushels compared with last year's 1,335,000,000.

Wheat prices fell seven cents to $1.75 per bushel, lowest since January, 1947, at Chicago this forenoon but later recovered all except a fraction of the loss.

Toronto Detectives Remain Critical After Wild Chase

TORONTO (BUP) — Two members of the Toronto detective force lay in critical condition in a hospital today while two of the youths they were chasing in a stolen car were charged with trying to murder them.

A third youth was killed when the detectives' cruiser and the stolen car crashed into a row of store fronts in the heart of Toronto Wednesday. The crash-up climaxed a running gun battle through the city's streets.

Detective John Fallis lay semi-conscious in an emergency ward of Toronto General Hospital, suffering from a broken back. His partner, Det. Ross Fordham, was in a deep coma with an injured brain and his left side partially paralyzed.

Nam Il was propaganda chief of the North Korean Labor Communist party until he was appointed chief truce delegate for the Reds in July, 1951.

He was not a general. He appeared at the Kaesong and Panmunjom truce negotiations first under a title of lieutenant-general and later as a full general.

The real Nam Il is a man about 50, trained in Russia. He was president of a Communist college in Pyongyang and also an instructor at the Kim Il Sung University there.

The real Kim Il Sung now is reported dead. Nothing could be learned about the status or whereabouts of the original Nam Il.

TIMES STORY GOT ACTION

Victoria Boy Happy As Lost Bike Returned

Ten-year-old Allie Bowditch was downhearted Wednesday, but he is happy today, thanks to a story in the Times and quick action by good-hearted citizens.

Allie's bike was stolen Monday while he was working as a caddy. And Allie told the Times he'd have no job if his bike weren't returned.

When his plight was reported, B. White, member of the Victoria Elks Club, offered to replace the bike if it was not found.

But his generous offer was not needed. J. Griffin of Florence Street, spotted the bike, and by 6 o'clock it was returned to its owner.

QUEEN SENDS SYMPATHY NOTE TO GREEK PEOPLE

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth sent a message of "sincere sympathy" to the people of Greece today.

She said she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh—a former Greek prince—were "deeply distressed" to learn of the disastrous earthquakes there.

The Queen's message, sent to King Paul of Greece, said "My husband and I are deeply distressed to hear of the loss of life and damage to property caused by the earthquakes in your western islands. We send our sincere sympathy to all those of your people who have suffered through this disaster."

EPIDEMIC FEARED

Paris Streets Garbage-Lined

4 Million on Strike; 10,000 Tourists Stranded; Laniel Firm

From CP and UP Dispatches

PARIS—The crippling series of strikes in state-operated industries in France spread to government offices and some sections of private industry today, taking some 4,000,000 workers from their jobs.

The strike of postal, telephone and telegraph workers went into its ninth day. Paris was without bus or subway service for the second straight day. The railway strike was in its third day. Bank and insurance clerks walked off the job today and so did workers in metal industries, including automobile factories. A few department store workers went out.

Hoarding and the fear of epidemics were added today to the hardships.

Garbage was rotting in the gutters of the normally gay, tree-lined boulevards and in front of the swank hotels of Paris. The humid air reeked.

French public health officials warned that the strike of garbage collectors, coupled with a walkout of morticians, faced France with the serious danger of epidemics.

TRANSPORT STOPPED

All public transport and utilities have been paralyzed and thousands of tourists—including 10,000 Americans—are stranded.

Frugal French housewives were hoarding food, threatening a further squeeze on an estimated 100,000 tourists who already were reduced to eating box lunches.

Gasoline also was disappearing from the market, with indications that fuel hoarding might halt the scanty, makeshift transportation still available. The "holiday visitors" were scrambling for any possible means to flee the chaotic tourist playgrounds of France.

Printers and other mechanical newspaper workers announced a 24-hour strike and said no newspapers would appear in France on Monday.

Marseille, France's second largest city, was without public transport today.

BANKS CLOSED

In Lyons, banks were hit by a stoppage and cheques could not be cashed. Metal workers came out and army trucks and private buses took over the city's transport.

As the wave of demoralizing strikes went into the ninth day, Premier Laniel a textile industrialist who learned to fight in the wartime French underground, stuck his chin out and said he would not yield.

The walkouts were sparked by disclosure that the government's program for rescuing the treasury from near-bankruptcy included lopping some employees off public payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants.

Workers also were angered that Laniel's plan did not put a heavier tax bite on the wealthy. The Communists chimed in with calls for a general wage boost.

The premier hinted the government would not make any reforms as long as the strikes continue.

Tain't till nature cuts loose ever' now an' then that man gits back o' ant-size.

Guessin' who's goin' t' take Diew's job as Conservative leader is kind o' gruesome, like sellin' a feller's clothes while he's still breathin'.

But it wasn't a yacht off Clover Point at all—jest Caddy explodin' with laughter.

People 'Mad With Fear' As Mountains Split

ATHENS, Greece (UP)—Twenty-two new tremors shook the fabled Ionian Islands today and mountains have been split open and entire neighborhoods swept into the sea in the worst earthquake in modern Greek history.

Rescue ships from the U.S. Sixth Fleet and British vessels from the Mediterranean squadron rushed to the almost-dead islands of Cephalonia, Ithaca and Zante as the estimated death toll rose above 500.

All estimates of casualties are sketchy. Destruction is so great it will be days or weeks before all bodies are found.

Mountains have been split open and are sinking as if great volcanoes had exploded, George Lydias of the newspaper Vradyni reported from the desolated Cephalonian capital of Argostolion today.

"People mad with fear are throwing themselves into the sea," his colleague, John Voutsinas, said.

Both men witnessed the violence.

'People Are Pale With Terror'

"The people are pale with terror, eyes dilated, with cold expressions of living death."

(Sea captains off Cephalonia said the continuous earth shocks sent up "geysers of dust" that looked like the explosion of bombs.)

(A message from the British destroyer Daring, off Argostolion, said the ship was being jolted by the continual tremors "as if it were being depth-charged.")

On Cephalonia, the cities of Lixouri, Sami and Agia Efthimia, as well as Argostolion, were in ruins.

The mainland cities of Patras lent convulsions of the earth which were climaxed today when the destroyed remains of the capital of the island of Cephalonia were partially swept into the sea by a landslide.

"The whole earth is shaking with a terrible underground noise," Lydias said.

"Mountains are splitting open, then sinking as if volcanoes had exploded."

"The earth split open and many parts of houses were hurled great distances."

"Furniture and bits of doors and windows sang through the air. Church bells in rocking steeples pealed irregularly and heart-piercing cries came from injured, some of them running through the streets, some trying to pull themselves or their relatives from the wreckage."

and Missolonghi, where the English poet Lord Byron died fighting for Greek independence, were hard hit.

The British cruiser Gambia reported that fires were raging through what was left of the ruined port of Zante, capital of the island of that name.

The U.S.S. Salem Sixth Fleet flagship, reached Argostolion with medical teams, hospital supplies, food, water and two helicopters.

The U.S. embassy here put the whole Sixth Fleet at the disposal of the Greek government if needed for rescue operations.

FREIGHT RATE DISPARITY

Persistent Fight Has Two Bases

(This is the second article in a public-service series by Victoria Times business editor E. McLean.)

Disparity in railway freight rate schedules applicable to Victoria and Vancouver is the cross—and the fight—of every Victorian.

Greater Victoria's business leaders of generations as far apart as 1907 and 1953 have fought tooth-and-nail whenever freight rates applicable to shipments between Victoria and points east of Hope have been higher than Vancouver's tariffs.

In 1907 angered businessmen induced the CPR to grant Victoria parity. It is essential to day's fight to regain parity, lost in 1949, also be successful.

There are two reasons for Victoria's bitter opposition to disparity between Vancouver and Victoria freight rate schedules.

The first is historic, the other economic.

Historically, Victoria had freight-rate parity with Vancouver from Nov. 25, 1907, until July 1, 1949. Victoria Chamber of Commerce (it was the Board of Trade 46 years ago) won that concession after a long, at times bitter argument. (This tale from the past will be told in a subsequent article in this series.)

During that period, as Mayor Claude L. Harrison emphasized at the Board of Transport Commissioners hearing here last March, "many industries located in Victoria on the assumption parity would prevail" always.

But on July 1, 1949, the railways, conforming to a Board of Transport Commission order, issued a new schedule of rates.

(It is contended by Victoria Chamber of Commerce, on reasonably sound grounds, that the railways misinterpreted the intent of the Transport Board's order; this argument will be outlined in a later article.)

The consequent increased freight rates from and to Victoria, compared with Vancouver, are an extreme hardship to local firms, particularly those which "export" their production. In some instances the existence here of the enterprises is jeopardized.

Most manufacturing firms here are caught both ways. They pay more freight charges than their Vancouver competitors on the raw materials they bring in, and they pay more to send the finished products to the great consumer markets in the east.

Today, they just cannot compete price-wise, or, alternatively, they must pinch every penny of other outlay to gain the minimum of profit that would justify their investment in capital and effort.

(Third article in this "Times" series will show how freight-rate disparity is an arrow aimed at the heart of established wage structures here.)

NO CROSSWORD WINNER; PRIZE MONEY JUMPS

After two weeks running in which there were three winners, Times crossworders ran into trouble with Puzzle No. 20, and not a single correct solution was submitted. The "toughies" were No. 12 down, where "cut" rather than "cat" was the answer to "If dangerous might need to be watched very carefully" and No. 24 down, where "sons," rather than "song" best fitted the definition "If cheerful can make for a happy atmosphere in the home."

Since there was no winner, Puzzle No. 21, appearing tomorrow, will be worth $50, plus the $50 bonus if the winner is a regular subscriber. Correct answer to Puzzle No. 20 is on page 18.

Did Launch Sink off Dallas Rd.? Times Offers Reward for Proof

The purported explosion and sinking of a 30-foot launch off Clover Point early Wednesday morning, remained just as much a mystery as ever today and the question around Victoria's waterfront was "Who's pulling whose leg?"

According to news reports carried by the morning paper and radio stations as John McLean of Victoria and John Turnbull and his wife of Seattle were blown into the water by the blast and rescued by a man in a rowboat from Shoal Bay, and a burned coat from the boat.

The Times has checked all available sources including police and fire departments, yacht clubs, pilotage authorities and shipping contacts and not one has heard anything about the supposed sinking, or had any contact with anyone purported to be connected with the accident.

The mystery deepened this morning when a woman telephoned the Times, giving her name as Mrs. Della Scott, and said she had a life preserver and a burned coat from the boat.

She gave an address on Dalhousie Avenue, which does not exist. When a Times reporter volunteered to go to her home and look at the debris she put him off with an explanation that her house was hard to find. A visit to Dalhousie Avenue showed that there was no such address.

To clear up the mystery the Times today posted a $25 reward which will be given to anyone who can provide proof that the boat sank, give its name and establish the identity of the owner.

9 CHILDREN SUFFOCATE TO DEATH IN ICE BOXES

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—Nine small children today had lost their lives playing games of hide-and-seek in airtight ice boxes.

Twin tragedies, both involving sets of twins, struck in two states within 24 hours.

The bodies of five youngsters were found Wednesday night near Crawford, Ark., where they lived on a tenant farm.

A three-day search for four missing boys at Richmond ended this morning when a carpenter opened an unused refrigerator box at McGuire Veterans' Administration Hospital and discovered their bodies.

The tragedy duplicated the Crawford incident, in which five youngsters, apparently playing a game, locked themselves in an unused ice box while their mother worked in a cotton field.

Some of the hundreds of searchers, many of them sleepless for 48 hours or more, wept when they heard the news.

Miners Sent To Jail for Ont. Brawl

TIMMINS, Ont. (BUP)—Sixteen miners began serving jail sentences today following convictions for violence at the Broulan Reef mines in the Porcupine gold fields.

Magistrate Stanley Gardner gave the men terms from 10 days to one month as the result of a free-swimming melee which occurred July 24 when 50 men invaded the strike-bound mine to haul away non-striking workers.

Kenneth and Manzell Imhoff, who were charged with kidnapping, were jailed for one month on charges of intimidating Donald Cook, a millworker who was allegedly taken for a ride from the mine 10 days ago.

The only man who pleaded innocent was defeated CCF candidate Arnold Peters. In dismissing the assault charge laid against Peters, Magistrate Gardner castigated him and James (Shaky) Robertson, staff organizer of the United Millworkers' Union.

He said Robertson gave evidence only as it suited his own purpose and told him "If I went ahead on my own opinion I would have convinced you."

Financial Expert May Take Over Italy Premiership

ROME (UP)—Giuseppe Pella, the financial expert who raised the lira out of the play money class, appeared today as the most likely candidate to end temporarily the 46-day-old Italian government crisis.

Pella, who directed Italy's finances through the turbulent postwar years, called on President Luigi Einaudi Wednesday night shortly after Attilio Piccioni's withdrawal as premier-designate.

There appeared to be little doubt that the 51-year-old Pella will be asked by Einaudi to form a technical government to shove through parliament the country's 1953 budget.

None of the major leaders seemed anxious to try for a stable solution at the present time.

Ceylon Premier Calls Out Troops

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP)—The army was called out today by Premier Dudley Senanayake and volunteers were mobilized to quell Communist-inspired riots in which five persons have been killed and 69 injured in the past two days.

Open Revolt Flares Up Against Sultan As Berber Tribesmen Pour Into Capital

RABAT, French Morocco (UP)—Reports of open revolt against the Sultan of Morocco rocked this uneasy capital today as Berber tribesmen poured out of the Atlas Mountains today for a meeting at Marrakech.

Authorities of the French residency said Morocco was close to "anarchy" as a result of protests against the alleged political and religious shortcomings of the Sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

Pro-French Thami El Mezouri El Glaoui, Lord of the Atlas and Pasha of Marrakech, said several hours before the scheduled meeting with the Berber tribesmen that "things have gone too far to stop."

Gen. Augustin Guillaume, French resident-general, cut short his summer vacation in the Alps and returned by plane today.

When newsmen at the airport asked Guillaume about the explosive situation he advised them to "do like me, find out for yourself."

The resident-general said his job was to maintain order and promote French-sponsored municipal reforms which the Sultan has refused to sign.

Berber chieftains, in conclave with powerful heads of the Moslem brotherhood, would be able technically to depose the Sultan for his alleged crimes and proclaim a successor.

The Sultan wants Morocco to be free of French rule.

3 Prominent Tories Possible Leaders

Diefenbaker, Fleming and Smith Mentioned Likely Candidates; Convention Call Expected

By NORMAN W. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—Three names were being mentioned prominently in political speculation today over the future leadership of the badly shaken Progressive Conservative Party.

They are Saskatchewan MP John Diefenbaker, Toronto MP Donald Fleming and University of Toronto president Sidney Smith.

The trio are being discussed informally but seriously in behind-the-scenes political circles against the background of mounting reports that George Drew will himself suggest in the near future that a national convention be called in the spring of 1954 to settle the leadership question.

Whether or not Mr. Drew himself will be a candidate for re-nomination as leader at such a convention isn't known at the present time. But "informed Conservative circles say that he will not persist in the leadership without giving the rank and file of the party an opportunity to make a change if they so desire.

Rumors of a change in the national leadership of the party which became embarrassingly persistent to Mr. Drew at last winter's session of Parliament are assuming new significance in the present disorganized and demoralized state of the party.

At that time—from mid-January until early in February—the powers-that-be in the Conservative party were reported to be engaged in a plan to supplant Mr. Drew with university president Sidney Smith. Mr. Drew was to be compensated with appointment to head Ontario House, the office maintained by the Ontario government in London, Eng.

No Official Denial of Rumored Deal

The rumored deal was denied officially by Mr. Drew's supporters in the Conservative parliamentary caucus. But the reports that it had been seriously considered were never entirely dissipated, and there were very circumstantial reports of President Smith having visited the capital here to confer with Conservatives said to be favored to the switch.

Whether or not this plot ever had the actual existence which the persistent rumors of the day attributed to it, at least it served the purpose of advertising the split which existed even at that time in the party over the Drew leadership.

The knowledge of that split, coupled with the debacle of last Monday at the polls, is regarded here as forcing Mr. Drew to no other possible conclusion than the desirability of a national convention to find out what the sentiment of the grass roots of the party on the leadership question really is.

Mr. Drew's reference on election night to the possibility of the executive of the Dominion Conservative Association considering the matter isn't taken seriously by party circles here. It is regarded as a reply which Mr. Drew gave to the press simply—as a stop-gap answer until he had time to think over the problem in his own mind. It is pointed out that the newspaper men were questioning him within a few minutes of his having received the news of the extent of the party disaster.

While there is no machinery for the removal of a party leader once he has been chosen by a national convention, the implication in his selection is that he will justify his choice somewhere along the line by leading the party to victory. Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion retired when his leadership ended in the all-time record disaster to the party of the 1940 election. Once the returns were in showing that the Conservatives had carried only 40 seats, Dr. Manion immediately announced his retirement and called for a new convention.

PC circles here say that at an early date Mr. Drew will follow the Manion tradition and call for a national convention. They intimate that he will still be

Guard Action At Air Crash Explained

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James, officer commanding air defense command, said today a preliminary inquiry into the crash of a CF-100 jet fighter here Tuesday has revealed that "RCAP policy was not conformed with through-out."

Photographers' cameras and film were seized and reporters hindered at the scene where nine persons were killed when the flaming fighter struck two homes.

In an official statement, Air Vice-Marshal James said:

"With the knowledge that there were explosive charges still in the ejection seat and that the aircraft carried classified equipment, the guards assisted by civilian police endeavored to establish order to protect spectators against injury to safeguard the equipment."

PRESSURE FROM REAR

"All normal measures failed to clear the area properly and to keep the crowd at a safe distance. The pressure from the rear of the crowd at one point endangered the lives of the spectators in the front. The NCO in charge of the six airmen was driven, after repeatedly and unheeded warnings, to order on his own initiative the firing upward into the air of one volley of blank ammunition."

He said at the time the volley was fired, civilian firefighters turned hoses on the crowd to assist airmen in maintaining order.

Members of Naval Veterans' Branch No. 4, Canadian Legion, B.E.L., are requested to attend the funeral of our late Comrade George Biringer.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in McCall Bros' Funeral Chapel.

Potato Growers Demand Protection

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lower mainland potato growers have demanded import restrictions on U.S. vegetables to maintain the price of local produce.

The growers charged, in a resolution to the B.C. Marketing Board, that importation of U.S. potatoes, turnips, onions, cabbage, parsnips, sacked beets and carrots is forcing prices down.

STOCKHOLM (CP)—A survey shows that about 500,000 children are taking advantage of free school lunches in Sweden. The meals, consisting of a hot main course, milk and sandwiches, are provided to all school children regardless of their parents' economic status.

Baby Dies In Boat Fire

Fatal Burns Suffered in Blaze At Campbell River; Inquest Ordered

CAMPBELL RIVER—An inquest has been ordered by deputy coroner P. E. Lewis into the death of 2½-year-old Guy Oliver Thompson, who died at Lourdes Hospital Wednesday evening after being flown here with severe burns from Whaletown, Cortes Island.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Refuge Cove, was the victim of a fire which broke out early Wednesday afternoon aboard his parents' boat.

The child was asleep and his parents ashore when the fire started. It was reported the cabin which the child occupied was locked so that he could not get out and fall overboard.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Refuge Cove. A B.C. Airlines plane rushed the child and his parents to the Campbell River Hospital. He died about an hour after arrival.

Date of the inquest has not been set.

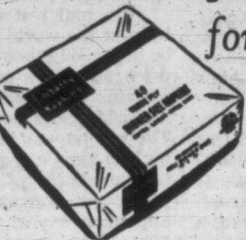

B.C. Automobile Association Opens Gas Price Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Directors of B.C. Automobile Association Wednesday set up a special committee to gather information on the recent rise in retail gasoline prices in B.C.

In announcing the move, a BCAA spokesman said "members are frequently asking why gasoline prices are standardized in various locations throughout the province when we understand that in states to the south, gasoline prices vary considerably even in one community."

Back to Competition

IN A RECENT STATEMENT aimed at the economic managers of Britain Mr. Butler, the chancellor of the exchequer (himself an able economist), issued a warning which also applies to Canada. Britain's competitive position in foreign markets, he said, is being undermined by its increased export prices—and this at a time when competition throughout the world is becoming intense after a long and easy seller's market.

While British industry is facing a widespread demand for wage increases, Mr. Butler said bluntly that a 10 per cent wage rise would force export prices up by 4½ per cent and that would "cause a serious fall in the volume of our exports."

Figures so small may appear to laymen as unimportant. But the exporter, British or Canadian, knows that international trade turns on a knife edge. The foreign customer will switch his purchases overnight if he can save even a few cents per article. A minute price margin can alter the whole stream of international trade.

For the last eight years, in a ravenous seller's market and a world hungry for all kinds of goods, the Canadian, like the British exporter, could afford to raise his wages, his costs and his prices without losing his customers.

In this period the costs of Canada's great exporting industries have been heavily increased, so far without damage to our foreign markets, though with heavy cost to domestic consumers. Our trade, despite the distortions of the recent election campaign, is only a fraction below an all-time peak and may exceed it by the year's end.

The real test of the price structure, in the world market, has yet to be met. Whether our present export price structure can meet that test remains to be seen and will be seen if world prices fall, even marginally. There is no way of escaping that test for the simple reason that, contrary to the claims of some easy-money politicians, Canada cannot consume and must export many of its products. The home market and the Canadian stomach simply will not absorb all of them.

The process of world price competition is not even. Some prices can fall even while others are rising. Thus, for example, our British Columbia fishing industry has experienced difficulty in selling its catch at a time when our total exports are booming. Our lumber industry has raised its wages and costs when prices are falling. Thanks mainly to an abundant American market (often attacked by the government's critics) our farmers are securing prices much higher than those prevailing in many parts of the world such as Britain and Europe.

The question before Canadian industry is not whether it can sell its goods to foreigners at present prices, since they are being sold in huge volume, but whether these conditions will continue if we continually raise our costs and prices. We have not priced ourselves out of the existing world market. We could quickly price ourselves out of a future market of lower prices, as Mr. Butler fears in the case of Britain.

Tongue in Error—or in Cheek?

WITH OR WITHOUT THE excitement of a pre-election atmosphere there is at all times a heavy responsibility on elected representatives of the people to speak with a full sense of their position—to enhance rather than demean the position they hold in the public eye.

Those who do so are repaying in part the honor their fellow-citizens have conferred upon them; they are endeavoring to take on a stature equal to the public tasks for which they have volunteered.

That cannot be said of those elected persons who indulge in wild statements and unsupported charges about the established institutions of their country. It cannot be said of Mrs. Lydia Arsens, one of Victoria's three Social Credit MLAs.

Mrs. Arsens, with motives that are difficult to understand, has seen fit to make the public allegation that "Communism is being taught in the schools, and because so many of our young people are so discouraged by our present economic system, some are accepting these theories as a way out."

The charge has been hotly denounced by teachers and others who have contact with our educational system. It will be as readily denounced by all who cannot see Canadian youths as being so discouraged that they are turning to dictatorship to save them.

A moment's thought by any reasonable person should show the complete irresponsibility of the statement, and raise, too, a hint of the dangers contained in such wild remarks.

That Word 'Smear'

DURING THE RECENT POLITICAL campaign the word "smear" found wide currency. In particular, the Premier seemed to find it one of the handiest words in his lexicon, using it on various occasions to express his displeasure with any subject to which he took exception.

Such being the case, the meaning and philosophy of the word is worth examination. In its figurative sense, according to the dictionary, it means to "pollute or contaminate morally." The basis of the smear is untruth.

This points up a distinction, we suggest, between the smear and valid criticism.

The Premier says, for instance, that Leslie Roberts' article "Social Credit Means Dictatorship" was an outright smear. But an examination of the article reveals that it is based on quotations directly from the lips of national Social Credit leader Solon Low, and on the citation of certain suppressive Acts of Parliament which the Aberhart government attempted to introduce in Alberta in 1937.

The Mourners

WHEN A FREE NATION catches and condemns a communist spy the local communists conduct an act of public mourning and protest against what they call capitalist murder. Not long hence the Russian government doubtless will execute one of the major communists of the world. It will be interesting to count the mourners at Mr. Beria's funeral.

How many communists in Canada will sign the usual petition of protest? Who will lead the demonstrations against Mr. Malenkov? Will Mr. Tim Buck utter even a word of valedictory or shed a public tear for his departed friend?

Not likely. When a spy is punished in the free world that, for the communist, is purder. When the Kremlin liquidates one of its most distinguished and powerful members, that is justice.

LOOSE ENDS

A Woman in Your Home?

ONE judges from the public prints that women are still news, as they have been for quite a long time, ever since the first big news story involving the apple and the serpent.

Thus that sedulous keyhole-peeper, Dr. Kinsey, in a tantalizing build-up for his new book, announces that 85 per cent of American women customarily break the laws of sexual behavior. Miss Dorothy Thompson writes a magazine article asking what is wrong with American women and notably fails to answer an unanswerable question. And now some encrusted authority in Britain, having spent a lifetime of scholarship on this subject, concludes that a rise in skirt lines means a collapse in morals and probably a general descent into the abyss.

YES, women are news, especially in the dog days of August when their only competitors are a few ancient sea serpents almost too exhausted by their annual labors to break into the front pages. (Where is our faithless Cadborosaurus, by the way, at the very moment when the news editors are growing desperate after the departure of the election orators?)

Now before we go any further, I wish to make it clear that I am all in favor of women, always have been. I am convinced, that is to say, (as many women are not) that the world is divided into two sexes and that this, on the whole, is a sound and mighty clever arrangement. I am also in favor of keeping women in the news when the news is legitimate. What worries me in my old age is the danger that women, by pressing too hard and making the wrong kind of news, may eventually lose their news value, and their present control of the world, which they won long ago, by diabolical cunning.

THE news of women's skirts, I dare say, is legitimate enough and harmless. It has been a subject of innocent debate ever since skirts were invented and will remain so as long as skirts are worn. Women will be in danger only if they give up skirts and thus publicly proclaim in trousers that they are really men in disguise, for that would destroy their omnipotence, which is based on mystery.

The skirt is a vital weapon in the endless war of the sexes because it maintains that mystery. If you doubt its power observe that the merest rumor that its length may be altered by an inch convulses every news desk in the country and even sends the sea serpents scurrying back into the deep.

THE news of American women's morals, however, is not legitimate by any known standard of civilization because it concerns a matter on which all successful civilizations have agreed to a decent reticence—not because the matter is unknown or mysterious but because it is everywhere known and requires no explanation by the gentlemen with the notebook at the keyhole.

Miss Thompson's inquiries, when she asks what is wrong with the American woman, fall into another category—legitimate, moral and deadly dull. If they were no more than that they would offer no danger to women and no hope to man. But when women themselves begin to ask what is wrong with them they strike at the very foundations of their power. They try to reveal the mystery which has made them the masters of society. They give man a chance of recovery and domination which he obviously doesn't deserve.

MISS Thompson remarks, with a startled look, in her well known state of perpetual emotion, that women control the North American home, own most of its property, keep their husbands on small allowances and cigarette money, and largely manage the lives of their children.

Miss Thompson may have not known that before but every man has always known it. He has always known also that the female sex is stronger, physically and spiritually, than the male, and much more ruthless, altogether a superior article. That is why he has constructed, in self-defense, the pitiful myth of his own superiority, never believing a word of it.

He has written the myth into many laws and conventions which some foolish women resent, but the wise ones know that these arrangements only strengthen their hold on society. For so long as men believe, or pretend to believe, in their own superiority, so long as they are allowed to proclaim it publicly, like a bankrupt writing worthless cheques, they will remain docile in their imprisonment.

ONCE woman admits the truth, once she is unwise enough to tell man that he is inferior, once she takes the curtains off the prison bars and lets man see his imprisonment, then the worm may turn and demand justice, including even some of his own money. Once the mystery is broken anything can happen.

It is madness for any feminist like Miss Thompson to ask what is wrong with North American women. She should be the last to admit that anything is wrong. In fact, there is nothing wrong. From her standpoint at least everything is as right as things can be in an imperfect world.

It will not remain so, however, if suspicions are sowed in the befuddled mind of North American man, if he begins to think about the mind of woman instead of being concentrated on the level of the skirt.

THE wise dressmakers of Paris know about woman and how to maintain her power by diverting man's attention from the wearer to the skirt, from his own dismal state to matters of no apparent importance and yet decisive and, to him, fatal. Woman's control of the world will be safe so long as she asks only what is wrong with her skirt, thus keeping man befuddled. She will be in danger of losing everything if she asks, as Miss Thompson asks, what is wrong with her. There is nothing wrong with anybody except men and, at this late date, they are not worth saving. The real question is, what is wrong with the sea serpents that they desert us at this season when Mr. Kinsey is emerging dantly upon the front pages.

Western Europe and the Bomb

THE claim that the U.S.S.R. has broken the American monopoly of the hydrogen bomb was made four days after the reply to the Western proposal of a conference on Germany.

Since Molotov must have known what Malenkov was going to say, the note and the claim are no doubt connected. This, presumably, is the opening of the Soviet diplomatic offensive, which everyone has been expecting during August, to spoil the prospects of the European army.

But while an offensive was anticipated, its character was not foreseen, and it is by way of being a political surprise.

It was supposed that Malenkov would make a tempting offer of German unification which would appease German national feeling. The note, the claim, and the excerpts of Malenkov's speech available indicate a very different line of Soviet policy. Instead of appeasing German nationalism, the present line is to stress the danger of a revival of German militarism and to present the U.S.S.R. in the role of the protector of the continent against German military power.

Malenkov in his speech reminded France that the Franco-Soviet alliance against German aggression is still in effect. His emphasis on German militarism was a reminder to the Poles that they can hope to keep the rich land taken from Germany only if there is no revival of German military power.

When Molotov's note is read in the light of Malenkov's claim, it is reasonably certain, I think, that the present policy is not to woo German nationalism but to contain it, to isolate it, and to deter it.

The note was a scornful rejection of the Western proposals; it offered nothing which was intended to open serious negotiations about the unification and evacuation of Germany. The claim of the hydrogen bomb, made immediately after this rebuff to the Western governments, was meant, I believe, to say to European public opinion that the Soviet Union has the military weapon for containing and isolating and deterring a German military revival.

It is meant to say that the U.S.S.R. can do what all Europeans who fear Germany more than Russia would like to have done.

For the hydrogen bomb, so we are told, is a weapon of total annihilation over a much larger area than any other bomb, including the atomic. But though the area is large by comparison with other bombs, it is not large as compared with the area even of a small country.

Therefore the more concentrated and congested the vital industrial cities, the better the target. On the other hand, the larger the country, the wider the open spaces, the fewer and the more dispersed the industries, the poorer is the target, and the less effective is the weapon.

Quite evidently, if the Soviet Union has, or is soon going to have, or is generally believed to have, hydrogen bombs and the means to deliver them, then there will be some furious thinking done in Western Europe on the subject of the strategy of Western defense.

That, presumably, is what Malenkov and Molotov are intending to provoke before they enter into negotiations about Germany.

All this is consistent with the theory that Malenkov is hoping to return to 1945 by repairing the mistakes which precipitated the cold war and provoked NATO and the decision to rearm Western Germany.

This would be a policy of Russian national imperialism minus the Bolshevik incitement and adventure. If we look back at the Soviet statements we shall find that this has been the line since Stalin's death. But Malenkov may well have been confirmed in the anti-German line by the uprising in Eastern Germany and by the growing indications that Adenauer will win the election.

CATS AND POLIO

May I contradict the statement in your valuable paper "Cat Carriers," written by Ludwig Larsen.

How perfectly absurd. Winnipeg with its epidemic of polio has fewer cats than any other city per population in Canada. Furthermore to prove this fact St. Heller in the Island of Jersey has more cats than any other place its size and I have yet to hear of a case of polio. Why do people make sweeping statements? Is it a cowardly form of revenge?

The Decline in Cockneys

IT was with something of a jolt that I read in an English journal that there had been no Cockneys born in London since the war. As a Londoner by birth, although not a Cockney, that news item conjured up for me nostalgic memories of hosts of bus-drivers and "clippies"—as the London women bus conductors are known—costermongers, and other distinctive characters who belong to the Cockney tribe.

And I thought of how lost "Punch" would be without the elderly and slightly raffish charwomen made famous by such cartoonists as George Belcher, and the "pearly queens" and "kings" who embellish Derby Day with their donkey-carts and "fevers," and all the other delightful characters who share "Lor, juv a duck!" as a stock exclamation. To anyone who really knows London, that city would lose much of its charm if the real Cockney ever disappeared from the scene.

Fortunately, that is hardly likely to happen, despite the ominous decline in the birthrate suggested above. For that sad situation is going to be put right. Your real Cockney, according to legend, is one who has been born within sound of Bow Bells. If born anywhere else in London outside of that small radius, he—or she—is just a plain Londoner.

Bow Bells was the name of the peal in the famous church of St. Mary-le-Bow, in Cheapside, in the heart of the city. That lovely old church was built in the 11th century, during the reign of William the Conqueror. It was one of the 53 parish churches destroyed during the Great Fire of London in the year 1666, and which the great architect, Sir Christopher Wren, was commissioned to rebuild.

SPIRES THAT SURVIVED

He finished it in 1680, with one of the graceful and characteristic spires which he used in all his London churches, concentrating his genius for design upon them because the congestion of buildings in the narrow streets prevented anything but the steeples and towers from being seen at any distance. Oddly enough, Wren's emphasis upon the spires was never more appreciated than in World War Two, when the blitz demolished scores of these city churches and left only their towers standing.

St. Mary-le-Bow was among the victims of German bombs in 1940-41 and only its tower was left standing. That, too, was a mess inside, the famous bells being completely destroyed. Now it has been decided to rebuild the church and restore the bells. Incidentally, former Londoners and Cockneys will rejoice to learn that it is intended to rebuild St. Mary-le-Bow on the original Wren lines and not on any modernistic plan.

So it shouldn't be many moons before little Londoners again will be breathing their first breaths within sound of the bells which label them Cockneys. And I am glad of it. Your real Cockney has a priceless sense of humor, an earthy philosophy, a special something which is to be found in no other people anywhere. Those very characteristics made them into a sound, courageous and dependable core of resistance during the Battle of Britain, and it would be a sad day for every one if their breed ever died out.

Nancy donkey-carts and "fevers," and all the other delightful characters who share "Lor, juv a duck!" as a stock exclamation. To anyone who really knows London, that city would lose much of its charm if the real Cockney ever disappeared from the scene.

FROM STRATFORD, ONT.

By STUART KEATE

'A Success Story Worth Hearing'

THE first annual Stratford Shakespearean Festival concludes here August 22 after six of the most exciting weeks in Canadian theatrical history.

What has been accomplished?

(1) From the educational point of view, it has reminded some 63,000 patrons of the matchless poetry of the world's greatest writer;

(2) From the artistic point of view, it has provided Canadian actors with their long-dreamed-of national theatre;

(3) From the Chamber of Commerce point of view, it has "put Stratford on the map";

(4) From the commercial point of view, it has attracted $175,000 in box-office receipts and resulted in the acquisition of one of the world's most interesting stage properties.

That all this should be achieved in less than two years by a town of 19,000, sparked by an enterprising (and unpaid) young journalist, is well-nigh incredible. But there it is.

The Stratford Festival is now an assured success. Dr. Guthrie has already promised to come back next year—perhaps with new stars. The name of Sir Laurence Olivier has been mentioned.

Already general manager Tom Patterson's restless imagination is at work. He wonders how a Highland Festival, such as they stage at Edinburgh, would go? He wonders why a theatrical festival could not be tied in with a "city of flowers."

Sitting in the garden of his home, on the outskirts of Stratford, he mused:

"We've got some plans, but they're a little tentative at the moment. I believe, if we're going to have a truly national theatre, we've got to spread out a bit. This thing was pulled together in such a hurry that we didn't get any actors from the west or east coasts. Most of them, inevitably, were from Toronto and Montreal. We'll have to broaden the base.

"How do you think a thing like this would go in Victoria?"

Now THERE was a conversational curve ball. I couldn't offer a ready answer.

I told Patterson that we had an ideal setting; that we had a tailor-made audience of theatre lovers; we had a generous influx of tourists; we had enough good actors in the neighborhood; and we had more than the average quota of wealth.

I told him also that, in three successive Community Chest campaigns—despite all our obvious advantages—we had failed to realize our quota. So our fund-raising propensities were far from spectacular.

"I know," he said. "But in Stratford, before this show, we had never raised more than $35,000."

His question intrigued me. Could we in Victoria (five times the size of Stratford), with stars of the calibre of Tyrone Guthrie, Alec Guinness, Irene Worth and Douglas Campbell, meet a budget of $265,000 for a theatrical project?

Frankly I was skeptical. But when Patterson said he was coming to the coast in September, I asked him if he would come to Victoria, look over our city, and size up its possibilities as a Festival centre. He said he'd come.

If there are any in the house today who are interested in Stratford's "artistic bombshell," and would like to hear the story from the lips of the general manager, I wish they'd drop me a note in care of this newspaper.

Perhaps, through the good offices of Colin Graham, we might arrange a meeting at the Arts Centre. It's a Canadian success story worth hearing.

(This is the last of a series of five articles on the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.)

IN HOLLYWOOD

By BOB THOMAS

Widmark Will Free Lance

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At a time when most actors are fighting to get into studios, Richard Widmark is anxious to get out.

The actor admits that he is going against the trend. But he says he can afford to.

"I don't own a Cadillac," remarked Widmark in his dressing room on the "Hell and High Water" set. "I drive a '51 Oldsmobile that I bought used. I also live very sensibly. So I can afford to take chances on my career, while some actors who live higher can't."

His contract with 20th Century-Fox is up next May. After "seven long years," he is not anxious to sign again. But it's not for the usual complaint—not liking the pictures he has been assigned. "Some have been good, some not so good; I guess the average has been okay," he explained. "But I just don't want to be tied down any longer. There are too many exciting things going on outside. Not television; I'm not interested in that. But I do want to combine some stage work with pictures."

"I'm 37 now, and I figure I've got 10 more years as an actor before I fold up and they carry me away. I want to make the most of those years."

Widmark admitted that he was a little tired of hustling through service pictures. "It all started with 'Halls of Montezuma,'" he said. "That was a success, so they started doing others."

Since then, he has been everything from a frogman to an infantry sergeant. He didn't mind too much at first, because he had the choice of fighting the war or playing a killer. At present he's a discharged lieutenant-commander in "Hell and High Water," which concerns a group of civilians who visit the Russian atom plants in a submarine.

"At least I'm discharged," he said.

Hollywood has never been able to figure Widmark. Despite his dynamic film portrayals, he's a quiet, soft-spoken and modest fellow. Although he recently hired his first press agent a sure sign he is going to free lance soon, he has never appeared to care much about publicity. He is friendly with the press corps, but seldom productive for copy.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Mail Mix-Up Charge Dropped at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Post office officials announced Wednesday that a charge of alleged mishandling of election material in Winnipeg mails has been dropped with persons involved and it has been decided to "drop the whole matter."

Complaints regarding the mail mix-up were made by W. B. Sword, committee chairman for C. Russell Simonite, unsuccessful Liberal candidate in Winnipeg South.

Mr. Sword said some election material sent out by Mr. Simonite arrived at the destination containing pamphlets supporting Dr. O. C. Trainer, Progressive Conservative candidate who was elected by a 538-vote margin.

C. W. Heisler, Winnipeg postmaster, said he and Mr. Sword had "discussed the matter at length, and are both ready to let the matter drop."

"There has been no blame definitely placed on anyone," Mr. Heisler said. "We feel that the whole thing was sheer accident and that not enough damage was done to worry any further about it."

BELIEVES POLIO PEAK PAST

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP)—Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy health minister for Manitoba, said today he believed the province was past the peak of its 1953 polio epidemic.

"There is evidence that the number of paralytic cases during the last few days has started to decline, but this doesn't mean a heavy toll still won't be taken by the disease," he said.

The epidemic already has afflicted 716 persons in the province this year, killing 13. But most of Wednesday's 42 new cases were of a mild nature.

Elliott said there had been an encouraging number of recoveries. Since the end of June, 282 of 496 cases admitted to hospital had been discharged.

MAY SEEK MAYORALTY

CALGARY (CP)—Grant MacEwan said Wednesday he would be ready to stand for election as the next mayor of Calgary if the citizens wanted him. Mr. MacEwan is manager of the Council of Canadian Beef Producers' western section and was formerly dean of agriculture at the University of Manitoba.

Well known throughout western Canada as author, cattleman and business executive, Mr. MacEwan emphasized that he would definitely not seek office to satisfy personal ambitions.

He said he had already been approached by several Calgaryans who suggested he would be the right candidate for such an important office.

Mayor D. H. Mackay has announced his intention of seeking a third term of office.

WINS CAR IN AUCTION

CALGARY (CP)—Just how many four-leaf clovers does this guy carry?

Carl O. Nickle was elected to his second term as a Progressive Conservative member of Parliament Monday. Wednesday he received a new Cadillac in the Calgary Football Club's "surprise" auction.

"I'm going to give this one to my wife," said Mr. Nickle, who already owned a Cadillac.

WILL ELECT NEW BISHOP

WINNIPEG (CP)—Bishop J. Lofthouse, senior Anglican bishop of the ecclesiastical province of Rupert's Land, and bishop of Keewatin, said today a meeting will be held here October 7 to elect a successor to the late Archbishop L. R. Sherman.

The successor to the 67-year-old archbishop of Rupert's Land, who died July 31 in Brandon after suffering a stroke while vacationing at Clear Lake, Man., technically may be named from anywhere in the world.

UN Diplomats Differ on India Position

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The Western powers sought agreement among themselves today on whether neutral India should be invited to attend the forthcoming Far Eastern political conference.

Diplomats representing 16 countries whose troops fought the Communists in Korea discussed the question off-the-cuff Wednesday night at a dinner party without reaching agreement.

The dinner, given by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., was the first opportunity since signing of the Korea armistice for the Western diplomats to huddle on problems affecting the Far Eastern conference.

Singer Haymes Plans Citizenship Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Crooner Dick Haymes, facing deportation for following sultry Rita Hayworth to Hawaii, said today he plans to fight for American citizenship.

"I'm trying to work it out now," said the singer, who is appearing at a Las Vegas nightclub.

He said he was confident he will not be deported.

CAR SHIPMENTS UP

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian automobile manufacturers reported factory shipments of 233,798 motor vehicles during the first five months of this year, a gain of 22 per cent over the same period in 1952, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

Shipments of vehicles imported from the United States also were up for the five-month period.

NORDIC CO-OPERATION

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Three inter-Nordic conventions in the field of social welfare were signed at a recent meeting in Reykjavik by social affairs ministers of the northern countries. They stipulate that mothers, when living in another Nordic country, are entitled to the same maternity benefits they receive in their native country.

PORT ALBERNI—A 1951 automobile, belonging to a prairie visitor, was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday on the Alberni highway at Cameron Lake.

Wilnot Botsford of Regina, Sask., left the car when flames leapt out of the engine.

He told police he had no means of carrying water from the lake to throw on the flames, so stood helplessly as his car burned.

NANAIMO—Too many beer bottles and dogs are getting into Bowen Park bathing pool, the parks board reports.

Parks board chairman Jack McGregor stated hardly a day goes by that beer bottles or other refuse isn't thrown into the pool.

Also, he said, dogs running around loose were making the pool their swimming hole. He said 18 dogs were counted in the pool one day this week—and in spite, he smiled, of a sign warning dogs off the area.

NANAIMO—Robert Stephenson, actor son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stephenson, 1180 Stewart Avenue, has been called back to Hollywood to take part in a new Danny Kaye picture, "A Knock on Wood."

LANGFORD—John Edworthy, of Victoria, was judged best baby in the baby show at Langford Fair.

Best Langford baby entered was Patrick F. Tannhauser.

FISH-OFF TICKETS AVAILABLE

Ladder Derby List, Rules

Attention, ladder derby qualifiers. You have until Tuesday night, August 18, at 5:30 p.m., to register for the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association grand fish-off to be held in Saanich Inlet Sunday, August 23.

If your name appears on the accompanying official list as released today by the VSIAA ladder derby committee, you must secure your fish-off ticket ($2.50) and derby pennant by Tuesday.

Failure to do so will result in you being ineligible to compete for grand prize list, worth approximately $3,500.

Fish-off tickets will be available at Wilson & Lenfestey's store, 1225 Government Street, Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each day. Qualifying stubs must be produced upon request.

If the 500 positions on the grand ladder, culmination of the 10 weekly ladders, are not filled by Tuesday night, a supplementary list will be announced Wednesday. If these vacancies are not filled by Thursday night at 5:30 a.m., further list will be announced Friday, and so on until all 500 final positions are filled.

Regardless, the list of qualifiers released today must claim their tickets by Tuesday, those on the first supplementary list by Thursday night at 5:30, and those on the second as decreed by the ladder derby committee. Any errors or omissions in the official list should be referred to the committee.

Derby chairman Andy Anderson has announced that the VSIAA has secured a limited number of boats for those without same. Those needing boats are asked to contact Anderson by phone at Colquhoun 211. They will be advised where the boats may be secured. In any case a minimum of two finalists to a boat will be the rule.

Derby finalists are also reminded that they may take passengers with them on "Derby Day," but that only finalists in the boat may fish. Any violation of this rule will result in the boat being disqualified.

The inlet will be patrolled by 25 official boats carrying official pennants. The patrol will begin at midnight, Saturday, August 22, and any derby finalists found fishing before the 6 a.m. starting time Sunday, will be disqualified, as will any boat or finalist found violating derby rules.

Complete list of rules for Derby Day will be released by the ladder derby committee next week.

Irish Celebrate Perfect Home Season

Defeating Vancouver Pileaters 13-10 Wednesday night, Victoria Shamrocks ended a home season that has seen them win 16 games without a single loss. The league champs finish their schedule in Nanaimo Saturday night and open playoffs here against Na-naimo Monday night. Centre of dressing room celebrations following Wednesday's games was coach Red McMillan, who was chaired and cheered by Harry Irwin (left) and Larry Booth. Booth and Irwin were the high scorers in the game with three points each.

Butlers Remain Threat For City Softball Title

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The welcome boiled over at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as the Irish tacked a 16-game winning streak up on the wall.

Unbeaten at home and with the league championship sticking out their hip pocket, the Rocks showed no respect at all for the club they may have to beat all over again when they decorate the mantle with a picture of the Mann Cup.

Three years now the Rocks have gone into the league playoffs with their hopes high, and each time the glistening panorama has faded into a mirage.

The first year, nothing much was expected. It was a green untied crew which whiplashed the Indians into submission in the semifinals, then courageously bowed to the powerful experience of the Adanacs in the Intercity League finals.

That second year, the Rocks were riding high, wide and handsome as they hit the home stretch. They threw off the challenge of the Indians but couldn't match the closing rush of the Combines as they hit the payoff wire. And bitter disappointment followed as the Combines almost went all the way.

It was almost the same story at this time last year. Again the Irish were kingpins through the regular grind and odds-on favorite to pick up the marbles when the playoff wheel started to spin. But alas, injuries and a combination of events that left city fans bewildered, even resentful, took place, and the Irish fell quickly into disfavor with their early demise.

Winter Storm Faded Memory Now

Things looked black through the winter, as the hint of team dissension and another league entry from Victoria spelled possible doom for the Irish.

Luckily, the Rocks have since proved, this storm blew itself out and with a new executive handling the reins, a new league champion began to take shape.

The Rocks jumped the gun on their opponents and haven't been caught yet. They whipped through their 16th straight victory at home Wednesday night, a record unparalleled in the modern history of the sport to throw the lie back at their early-season detractors.

They spotted Vancouver Pileaters a three-goal lead, an almost fatal trick in the past, and then came racing down the stretch in the third quarter to run their opponents into the ground with ridiculous ease.

They showed as much dash in their final game as they did when they lifted the curtain on their record-breaking season and right now they're running the gauntlet of tremendous fan interest as they grimly set their sights on a higher level.

They've only asked two favors along the route and they've been denied both by the league heads.

Their presence in the league, it seems, has been suffered only because of their ability and their gate appeal. But the Irish have outlived this perverse attitude with a spirited display that cannot be denied.

Sons Should Prove No Obstacle

Next Monday night at Memorial Arena the Rocks enter upon their fourth Intercity Lacrosse League playoff, meeting Nanaimo Native Sons in a best-of-five fish fry.

They should take it all from John Lumley and his willing and, when in the mood, capable band of woodsmen.

And this, too, could be the year that, when they reach out their fingers to touch the mosaic that goes with the Canadian championship, it won't disintegrate into obscurity as has been the case in the past.

Well done, Shamrocks.

Rainiers All Through?

Seattle's Rainiers, in a four-game losing streak, have just about eliminated themselves from the Pacific Coast League pennant race.

They had a four-run lead over Los Angeles in the first game of a doubleheader Wednesday night and still blew the game, 5-4. And they led 8-3 in the ninth inning of the second game only to have the Angels score six runs and beat them again, 9-8.

Hollywood bowed to the three-hit pitching of Ken Gables as Sacramento won the opener of a doubleheader, 2-0. Mel Queen, the Stars' right-hander, made an auspicious return to the firing line after being out for weeks with an ailing shoulder, and Hollywood grabbed the second contest, 2-1, in 10 innings. Queen allowed only four hits and had a shut-out until the ninth inning.

Hollywood's split with the

Archie Wills Named to Cougar Post

Archie H. Wills, widely known newspaper man and former managing editor of the Times, will take over the public relations post with the Victoria Cougars. It was announced today by Fred Hutchinson, club general manager.

For over 30 years Wills has had a close association with Lester Patrick, president of the Cougars. When Lester led his original Cougars to the Stanley Cup in 1924-25 world series and again in 1925-26, Wills covered both series.

Drilling's Win Streak Broken

Yakima 6, Victoria 5

Tough thing about being with a ball club that remains tough to maintain any kind of winning streak.

Bob Drilling, recently the winningest member of the Victoria Tyees pitching staff, had his nine-game winning streak chopped off Wednesday at Yakima as the host Bears scored two runs in the last of the ninth with two out to pick up a 6-5 victory over the Tyees.

Tyees open a five-game home stand tonight with a doubleheader against Salem starting at 7.

The loss was Drilling's 13th of the season against a dozen victories. Yakima ace Danny Rios scored his 16th victory of the campaign.

Tyees led 5-4 going into the last of the ninth but Yakima got on the victory trail with Rios opening the inning with a single. Jim McNamara dropped a bunt and beat it out but Phil Steinburg, who followed with another bunt, forced Rios at third for the first out.

After Al White went out on an infield grounder, advancing the runners, Tyees manager Cec Garriott ordered long-clothing Bob Weisman passed, leading the bases, to get at Herman Lewis, a left-handed swinger with a .283 plate mark.

But Lewis crossed up the strategy as he drilled his second single of the game, scoring the tying and winning runs and preventing Drilling from hanging up his 10th straight win.

Caps Gain Ground in WIL Race

Vancouver fashioned back-to-back wins over Salem Wednesday night and all but knocked the wavering Senators out of second place in the Western International Baseball League.

The Capilans clipped the Oregonians 3-1 in the seven-inning opener at Vancouver, then took the nightcap 6-1. The double win gave the Caps a sweep of the four-game series and left them only half a game away from the No. 2 berth.

Spokane also cashed in on Salem's misfortunes. The Indians downed Tri-City 6-5 and 12-8 at Spokane. That increased their first-place margin to four full games.

In other contests, Calgary edged Lewiston 5-4, and Edmonton swept a twin bill at Wenatchee, 11-5 and 2-0.

CANADIANA WINS

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI)—E. P. Taylor's Canadiana, carrying top impost of 124 pounds, scampers to a two-length victory yesterday in the 29th running of the $15,000 Addad Test Stake at Saratoga.

McMillan, flushed with victory joy after the game, first predicted victory over Nanaimo Native Sons, whom the Irish meet in the semifinals starting Monday, in three straight games. However, he later revised his estimate, saying, "The series won't go more than four games."

He also announced that with the league title in hand, he will take no chances on incurring injuries on the Rocks' last game of the season in Nanaimo Saturday night. He plans to rest Booth, Severson, Browning, Northrup and Ferguson. Bill Andrews will replace Jim Hetherington in goal.

The birdmen notched three more in the fifth on two hits and two errors and added a singleton in the sixth.

Leftfielder Stan Cornwall connected for two singles for the winners while Don Donahue had one safety.

Playoff action in the circuit resumes Sunday afternoon with Page - the Cleaner meeting Farmer Construction at 2.30. Farmers lead their series by one game, having won the first.

day championship hit the half-way mark. Hard-hitting Barbara Davies of Vancouver defeated Mrs. Helen Cleat, also of Vancouver, 4 and 3, to give Canada two quarter-final qualifiers.

Three Toronto women, Ada Mackenzie, Shirley Woodley and Mrs. J. H. McCarter, were eliminated. And joining them on the sidelines were Anne Sharpe, clubmate of Miss Stewart at Fonthill, and Mrs. W. S. Edey of Winnipeg and Mrs. Cleat.

Miss Mackenzie, who has won the Open title five times, the first in 1919, went out 3 and 2 to Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich.; Miss Woodley lost 5 and 4 to Pat Lesser, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. McCarter was defeated 3 and 2 by Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Sharpe was overwhelmed 8 and 7 by defending champion Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., and Mrs. Edey bowed 3 and 2 to Grace Lenczyk, Newton, Conn.

Victory for the British Open champion was the highlight of a day that saw six Canadians eliminated as the seven-

Season Ends on High Note For Present, Past Coaches

Shamrocks 13, Pileaters 10

Two Shamrock coaches, one freshman and one graduate, received what were probably their greatest honors Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

The freshman coach, Red McMillan, completed what for him has been spectacular coaching debut as the Victoria Shamrocks completed their home season with a 13-10 victory over the Vancouver Pileaters. The victory gave the Irish—and McMillan—a perfect record of 16 victories and no defeats on their home floor, a feat unparalleled in recent Intercity Lacrosse League history.

And even though McMillan had to don strip for the last lap of the season to help his charges, the record stands as a glittering tribute to his talents.

The graduate coach, Arnie Ferguson, has had a boxcar career studded with honors, both tangible and intangible, but it is doubtful if any will be more cherished than the Laurie Dillabaugh Memorial Trophy presented him during the half-time intermission.

Awarded in memory of the late sports announcer of CJVI, the trophy was given to Ferguson for his ability and sportsmanship, but above all, for his inspirational play—an attribute that no fan can deny Ferguson has exhibited in quantity this season.

Pils Needed This One Badly

Few of the 16 victories the Irish have scored came as hard as Wednesday's. Pils, still fighting to clinch second place in the first and second quarters, Pils roared into a 6-3 lead at the half and the Irish win streak appeared headed for the nearest drain pipe.

With lanky Jack Green flashing some colossal goal-tending in the first and second quarters, Pils roared into a 6-3 lead at the half and the Irish win streak appeared headed for the nearest drain pipe.

But the Rocks, their pride stung by the thought of impending disaster, shook off the combination of jitters and stiff Pilsener checking that had held them impotent in the first two heats.

They outscored Vancouver 4-1 in the third quarter and reached the three-quarter point with a 7-7 tie. Harry Irwin threading a sneaker shot past Green at 9.45 to cut the deficit to one goal and Jackie Northrup circling the goal for the squaring tally at 14.57.

Whitely Severson rapped in a cross-hand shot on assists from Larry Booth and Archie Browning just five seconds into the last quarter and the Rocks were away to the races.

Bob Anderson got his second goal while the Rocks were a man short and Browning, playing his first game since being shelved early in the season, blazed in one of his patented howitzer shots from the boards to make it 10-7.

After that, it was just a matter of playing out the game.

Victory Predicted Over Sons

Irwin turned in a brilliant offensive game, scoring on the only three shots he took. Booth, just back from his honeymoon, had two goals and one assist. Denny Huddleston was the big Pils scorer with three goals and one assist.

And lest any fan be worried about how Browning's hand injury will stand up under heavy checking, Pils' Alex McKay showed some curiosity about this question and took a couple of exploratory jabs at the hand with his stick. He soon found himself with a handful of flaming mud, which quickly discouraged any further research.

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Heli-copter, a fleet Canadian-owned filly, won the richest of all Hambletonian Stakes Wednesday when she captured the last two heats of the $117,117.38 trotting derby at Good Time Park before a screaming crowd of 20,000.

It was the first time a foreign-owned horse had won the world-famous race for three-year-old trotters since it was inaugurated in 1926. The proud owners are two Brampton, Ont., brothers, J. Elgin and C. E. Armstrong, road builders.

OSLO (CP)—The central bureau of statistics reported that Norway's gross national product, measured in fixed prices, was quadrupled between 1930 and 1950. Per capita production doubled during the same period.

SOMETHING NEW IS BE-ING ADDED—in a world whose twin gods of success appear to be "Fast Buck" and "The Deal," fair-haired, quiet-speaking Birt Nixon, owner of the Fox Theatre on Quadra near Hillside, appears to be doomed to failure. As any fool can plainly see, a guy who is so old-fashioned that he thinks it's the right thing to give some of the cash customers' money back in improvements, is crazier than a lion and deserves to go bust.

But first of all, just listen to some of the things this queer Nixon's done and see if you don't agree with me.

About six years ago, when he's around 41, he gives up his dry-cleaning plant in Lethbridge and moves to Victoria. About a year later he goes into the movie business with a Quonset hut, some 40 by 150 feet in size. He installs equipment and starts feeding film fare to the neighborhood. Good enough. But does he let it go there and rake in the shekels for himself? No, the dope. He pays out some of his hard-earned brass for a fancy heating plant and a Hammond electric organ. He puts in air-conditioning and spends his spare time experimenting with his screen. No one pays him to do it. It doesn't mean any more moolah in his kick. It's just that he's got a fancy notion that by adding curvature to his screen he'll be making it nicer for the guys and dolls who pay to get in by eliminating the distortion seen by those on the side aisles and to give the pictures added depth. What's more, he'll be ready to show three-dimensional Cinemascope movies.

Canada's 4th Jet Wing Ready For Europe Hop

OTTAWA (BUP)—The fourth Sabrejet fighter wing to be sent to Europe by the RCAF will fly to Baden-Söllingen, Germany, late this month, the RCAF announced today.

The three squadrons of planes will leave Goose Bay, Labrador, Aug. 27, if the weather is suitable.

The trans-Atlantic flight, labelled Leapfrog IV, is the fourth trans-Atlantic hop by Canadian jets. With the arrival of the latest group of planes, Canada's commitment to NATO air defenses in western Europe will be complete.

North Star transport planes Wednesday began airlifting ground crews for the three squadrons to air fields along the route.

The squadrons will rendezvous at Goose Bay before Aug. 27. They will follow the route of the previous mass flights across the Atlantic, stopping at Blue West 1, Greenland; Keflavik, Iceland, and Kinloss, Scotland.

The flight is expected to take several weeks because the planes will make each hop only when weather conditions are at their best.

CCFers Harold Winch, in Vancouver East, and H. W. Herdridge in Kootenay-West, were the others. They each had four opponents.

46 Candidates In B.C. Lose $200 Deposits

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nearly half of the 100 B.C. candidates in Monday's federal election lost their $200 deposits.

A total of 46 contestants failed to get at least half the number of the winning candidate's votes. They lost a total of $9,200 in deposits, which are held by the comptroller of the treasury at Ottawa.

Of the 46, five were Liberals, six were CCFers, seven were Social Crediters, 11 were Progressive Conservatives, and 17 were Labor-Progressive Party candidates.

The deposits now belong to Her Majesty for the public uses of Canada, according to the Elections Act.

All opponents of four of the winners failed to get the required percentage of the victor's votes.

Progressive - Conservatives General G. R. Pearce, in Esquimalt-Saanich, and Davie Fulton, in Kamloops, were two. They each had three opponents.

CCFers Harold Winch, in Vancouver East, and H. W. Herdridge in Kootenay-West, were the others. They each had four opponents.

TLC Looks For Support On Health Plan

Resolution Passed By Union Convention

OTTAWA (BUP) — The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada looked today for grass roots support for its demand for a government-subsidized national health insurance plan.

A resolution passed at the TLC convention Wednesday said the group would "demand the early establishment of a government-subsidized, contributory national health insurance scheme, covering every citizen of Canada which will include medical, surgical, dental and optical care, hospitalization and artificial limbs where necessary, psychiatric treatment as well as completely supervised mental homes."

President Percy Bengough and several other speakers said every union man should work for such a scheme in his home territory.

There was "not a scintilla of truth," he said, in doctors' claims that payment by salary or on a per capita basis would ruin their profession.

Pharmacist Must Pay Taxes on Fire Relief Money

OTTAWA (BUP) — The income tax appeal board has ruled that Lionel Gagnon, Rimouski, Que., wholesale pharmacist, will have to pay taxes on the $4,075 compensation he got for his stock of goods destroyed in the Rimouski fire on May, 1950.

Gagnon appealed after the department of revenue assessed the compensation payment as income. It was paid to Gagnon by a relief committee set up after the fire to compensate victims of the fire which all but destroyed the city.

The board ruled today that the department had been right. "The question is whether the payment was to compensate him for the loss of capital or the loss of income," the board said. "There is nothing wrong with the assessment made."

LABOR BODY APPROVES LOTTERIES

OTTAWA (BUP) — Delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress convention after a hot discussion approved a resolution calling for a law to permit government-operated lotteries.

Many of the delegates took the stand that gambling was here to stay and might as well be legalized.

Nehru's Sister Draws Support for UN Post

UNITED NATIONS (NY) — Indian sources said Wednesday the United States will support Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, for president of the eighth United Nations general assembly. It opens here Sept. 15. Support for Mrs. Pandit was reported to have ballooned when the Commonwealth countries and members of the Asian-Arab group swung behind her.

BOAC Purchases Jet Back From CPA to Alleviate Shortage

LONDON (Reuters) — British Overseas Airways Corporation, short of jetliners for its world services, has bought a Comet which Canadian Pacific Airlines originally planned to use in its services between Australia and North America.

CPA intended to use two Comets on its Sydney-Honolulu leg but dropped the plans when its first plane crashed last March at Karachi, Pakistan, while en route to Australia.

CPA now is expected to delay its jetliner service until it can take delivery of the new Comet II.

Truck Strike Deadlocked

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP)—An almost total blockade of trucks in and out of this city was maintained by striking drivers today and trucking companies announced they were resigned to a long siege. Police stood by to guard against violence like Tuesday's scuffle in Kitchener where seven men were arrested and charged with besetting as a result of a battle with police over movement of trucks.

The Ontario trucking companies affected by the four-week strike of 1,500 drivers said they had no intention of giving in.

It is a great relief to learn the name of Cadborosaurus is duly protected by copyright, and cannot be stolen from this city.

However, if Caddy doesn't hurry up and put in an appearance, I suggest his name should be changed to Cadboranonymus.

The Totem Theatre group is nothing if not publicity conscious, which may be one reason it has operated successfully in the highly competitive field of entertainment.

One example will demonstrate their eagerness for space in the papers.

A couple of years ago, when they were operating out of a small upstairs studio in Vancouver they broke off rehearsals to go across the street for a cup of coffee.

While slipping his jaw, one of the actors happened to glance out the window, and noticed smoke pouring from the roof of their building.

"Good Heavens," he cried, "we're on fire. Give me a dime, someone."

"What for?" he was asked.

"To call the fire department, of course."

"Here's a dime—but don't waste it on the fire department. Call the newspapers."

And that's what the actor did, thus gaining many dimes' worth of newspaper space.

Thor Arngren, one of the Totem group's energetic promoters, swears this actually happened, and we may as well believe him.

At one time the troupe performed in a small outdoor theatre in West Vancouver, and at each rehearsal they were watched and heckled by a horde of youngsters.

Thor overheard two young boys talking as they left the theatre one day.

"You coming back for the dress rehearsal?" asked a 12-year-old.

"What's a dress rehearsal?" asked his younger companion.

"That's when the actors wear clothes," he was told.

A bright-eyed constituent sends along a piece of campaign literature which, he believes, should be called to the attention of the B.C. Telephone Company.

On a blotter distributed by the supporters of James George appeared this telephone number (pay strict attention, now): BEacon 1841.

The constituent remarks "The Progressive Conservatives are really progressive, changing the dialing system in Victoria."

Incidentally, please don't experiment by dialing BE 8941. You'll get B 3894.

Cost of the work in this province will be about $240,000, and the federal government will pay one-third up to a maximum of $82,000.

Charming Miss Canada Welcomed to Victoria

"Should I take my shoes off?" Miss Canada asked a photographer when he posed her with Mayor Claude Harrison at City Hall this morning.

She recalled that Mayor Harrison isn't the only Canadian mayor who "looks up to her." "I had to pose in stocking feet with Mayor Lampert of Toronto," laughed the five-foot, eight-inch beauty.

Kelowna's Kathy Archibald, 19, who jumped from "Lady of the Lake" at the Kelowna Regatta last year to Canada's throne of talent and beauty last month at Burlington, Ont., arrived here this morning.

Tired from three days of guest appearances at Vancouver, she still managed to look radiant while she downed a small breakfast at the Douglas Hotel.

She will leave the airport at 5:30 p.m. for Edmonton. Her chaperone on the present tour which will take her across Canada and to Atlantic City, N.J., is president of the Miss Canada board, Mrs. Evelyn Goring Webster of Hamilton.

Mrs. Webster hands out the statistics while Kathy makes up with the charm.

She says Kathy wears size 15 dresses and has a 36-inch bust, 25-inch waist and 37-inch hips. She warns newcomers that Kathy has a boy friend in Kelowna who is training to be a veterinarian.

Kathy says she is still sticking to her long-time ambition to be an animal surgeon, too. Asked what would happen to her plans if she is offered a movie contract, she said:

"Well... I guess I could put off being a veterinarian for awhile."

Later in the day Kathy was welcomed at the office of Premier Bennett by Ralph Chetwyn, minister of trade and industry. She lunched with members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Miss B.C. Products Fair, Eleanor Anderson.

In the afternoon she modeled fall-wear at the Hudson's Bay Company.

She said she was "thrilled" with her first trip to Victoria, but she felt some consternation on arrival when it was discovered no room had been booked for her... and the Empress was full.

Already winner of a new automobile, $1,000 and other awards, Kathy will now visit Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Port William and Sault Ste. Marie before going after the Miss America title in New Jersey.

Prize total for the big win is $26,000.

Her entry in the Atlantic pageant will boost Canada. She has chosen to memorize sections of Times Editor Bruce Hutchison's book, "The Unknown Country," which she will recite to music.

Getting her name in print in Times plant today was Gail Horne, 16, San Diego essay contest winner. Linotypist Fred Schebek was glad to oblige.

'IF I WERE QUEEN'

San Diego Miss Wins Trip For Essay on Royalty

An essay entitled "If I Were Queen" has won a taste of royal living for a 16-year-old San Diego high school girl, Gail Horne.

She has been living like a princess at the Empress Hotel for four days, had her first airplane ride and even rode in a swaying carriage behind eight white horses through the streets of Victoria.

To be Victoria's that's a tall order, but to teen-age girls from San Diego it's dream stuff. Gail is a grade 11 student. It was the biggest thing that ever happened to her, she said, when the letter came saying she had won out of all the entries on the Pacific Coast.

Her essay was simple and "... from the heart," the studio official who accompanied Gail and her mother said.

Gail thought that a queen should rule with "one hand to her people and one to God."

The contest was a promotion for the recently released picture, "Young Bess," a biography of Queen Elizabeth I. Gail returns to California tomorrow.

VICTORIA PILOTS SEEK GOLD CUP

Speed boat enthusiasts from Victoria will take part in the Vancouver regatta on Aug. 30.

Several Vancouver boats are also expected to come here for the club's Labor Day regatta at Willows Beach.

Perry Explains How Backward Nations Aided

Canada can be proud of its membership in the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development, and the work which the bank has been doing since it was established at Bretton Woods in 1944, Victoria-born Neil Perry, noted Canadian economist, told members of the Rotary Club at a luncheon meeting today.

NEIL PERRY... Points with pride

Mr. Perry addressed the club on the International Bank, better known as the World Bank, telling them of some of the problems of managing such a giant venture.

"There was a time six years ago when one could justly describe the World Bank as an experiment. Today," Mr. Perry said, "the bank is an established institution helping to expand production and to raise living standards throughout the Western world. We can be proud of both what the bank has been able to accomplish and of Canada's association with this postwar instrument of international collaboration."

Mr. Perry, visiting the home of his mother from his Washington, D.C., job as financial counselor to the Canadian Embassy, explained that the World Bank had been mainly interested in reconstruction loans to backward countries.

He told members that several large reconstruction loans had been made for development purposes in Latin America, the Middle East, the Far East, Europe and Australasia. The money was used to develop hydro electric, irrigation, communications, land reclamation, railway improvement and other such projects.

There are 54 members of the World Bank, including all the major countries except Soviet Russia. To date the bank has accepted fund obligations which amount to $9,000,000,000. Mr. Perry pointed out, however, that the bank's working capital would be more like $2,000,000,000.

GOLD OR DOLLARS

Under the terms of the agreement each country had to put up 2 per cent of its subscription quota in gold or U.S. dollars, and 18 per cent in its own currency. The remaining 80 per cent had to be kept by the country in reserve in case of default, he said.

The United States put up the greatest amount of money, as could be expected, Mr. Perry said. It has contributed $1,300,000,000. Canada's quota was $325,000,000, of which 20 per cent has been called, he told Rotarians.

"Just what has the bank done with its financial resources?" Mr. Perry asked. "Well, over the last six years the bank has made loans of over $1,500,000,000 among 25 or more countries."

Compared to U.S. foreign aid, he admitted, this appeared modest but he pointed out that one must look at the type of projects the bank has helped finance, he said.

As an example he pointed to the Kansas grass of India which could only be combated by deep plowing. Through World Bank loans tractor equipment had been made available to farmers in India.

Majority of Island Loggers Stop Work; Keep Watch for Fire From Air

A majority of coastal and Vancouver Island logging operations have closed down voluntarily because of the mounting fire hazard which is rapidly reaching the critical stage.

B.C. Forest Service officials, who are eyeing the situation carefully, said today the hazard is building up steadily but a complete forest closure in the Vancouver Forest District, which includes the Island, is not being considered at the moment.

They pointed out, however, the situation could change quickly and a closure in the near future is not out of the question because no relief from the heat is in sight.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., the province's largest timber concern today closed down most of its logging operations until August 31. Only logging road construction will continue.

The Powell River Pulp and Paper Co. has closed down most of its logging operations in the past few days.

MacMillan and Bloedel operations now shut include those at Menzies Bay, Chemainus River, Northwest Bay, Ash River, Sproat Lake and Franklin River. Powell River Co. operations still are at Port Hardy, Salmon River and Powell Lake.

IN FOG BELT

Logging in the Bamfield and Kennedy Lake districts is continuing because they lie in a fog belt and there is no real hazard. Many small operators also have ceased work voluntarily.

"The loggers just won't take a chance with the hazard as high as it is," a forestry department official said. "We're glad to see they are fire-conscious. They are to be congratulated. Many companies have been

WATCH FROM AIR

Officials of the Vancouver Forest District are flying over their area once and sometimes twice a day to keep up to date on the situation.

Conditions, they say, are especially hazardous in the logged over and slash districts, and in areas of felled and bucked timber. It is not so serious in the green timber because of last week's rain.

The logging companies already have been able to operate longer this summer than in 1952 when they were closed most of June and July.

FINGERS CROSSED

Meanwhile, forestry officials are keeping their fingers crossed and hoping the comparatively few fires which have occurred this week will not mushroom into major blazes. "When that happens," said an authority, "then you can start expecting a forest closure."

There are 54 fires in B.C., four of them in the Vancouver forest district. In this district, eight fires have occurred in the last 24 hours, but all are now controlled or extinguished.

An 18-acre fire at Harrison Lake has been brought under control by 60 firefighters. Other small blazes occurred at Hope, Nahatlatch, Lake, Nanaimo, Langford and Alberni.

Temperature to Soar, Weatherman's Word

The weatherman switched his traffic light today which stopped the flow of cool air from the Pacific and gave the right-of-way to warm air from the interior, headed seaward.

The change in direction meant a difference of nearly 10 degrees in temperature for Victoria.

High Wednesday, when sea breezes swept over the area, was 68 degrees. Today's high, it was anticipated, would be 78. On Monday, the thermometer registered 79 and on Tuesday 76.

According to Gonzales weathererman William Mackie the ridge of high pressure over the lower B.C. coast and interior is fairly well established, indicating good weather will continue.

Only threat to the current warm spell is a fairly active weather disturbance moving in this direction some distance out at sea.

The government weather ship at Station Papa, 900 miles northwest of here, reported rain from this disturbance today. The storm could stall or change direction in the next 48 hours.

Forecast for Friday: weather just about the same as today's.

Totem Company Prepares For First Curtain Call

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

With gala Victoria opening only a matter of hours away Totem Theatre players with director Phoebe Smith, went into final rehearsal today in the redecorated and rewired former York Theatre.

The heart-warming and rib-tickling comedy "Gig" which they will offer a packed house Friday night, is one of those delectable French comedies, which, like French cookery, has a spice and a piquancy that lingers long on the palate.

Concentration in these final rehearsals is on the changed pattern of movement in translating to conventional form arena style, and in adapting voices to the larger theatre.

However, with actors of such experience, neither factor will trouble them for long. The Totem Theatre Company, with its roster of actors and directors who are all entirely different to those in any former permanent company, emphasizes the amazing amount of skill and dramatic talent available in the west.

Thor Arngren and Stuart Baker are raising the curtain in Victoria almost 40 years from the day plans for the $125,000 Pantheatre were first published in the Victoria Daily Times, August 18, 1913. Several name changes occurred in subsequent years. The old York sign came down recently and a specially designed "Totem" sign will soon go up.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—What was the total cost of the federal general election?—G. C. M.

A.—Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, estimates that when all the accounts are in, the total will be approximately $5,500,000. He points out that since the general election of 1949, which cost about $4,500,000, practically all costs have increased, including even the pay of deputy returning officers.

Q.—Every Canadian is familiar with the image of the schooner Bluenose on the 10-cent coin. Was the Bluenose ever on a postage stamp?—R. D.

A.—Yes, Canada honored her most famous ship by placing an engraving of her on a 50-cent stamp in 1929. The issue came into use Jan. 8.

Q.—When was the first shipment of, or containing, china, via Churchill?—Mrs. J. C. N.

A.—As this remote distance from Churchill, some 1,200 miles as the crow flies, there appears to be no record of the first or any other shipment of china (presumably from the pottery works in England, via the Hudson Bay Railway, presumably destined for central Canada).

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

—Detachable Wall Shower!

By PENNY SAVER

Love that shower! We've never had one before, 'cause our tub isn't equipped for it, but now with our new, detachable wall shower, the whole family is getting a daily dousing! Needless to say, the water bill is sky-rocketing, but who cares? It's fun!

This shower is the kind that attaches to any size faucet, and (get this) there is a suction cup at back of the shower head which will hold securely to any wall surface! You can stand back and enjoy the spray as you can with an ordinary wall shower. Swivel head adjusts to play at any angle. The shower detaches instantly for use as a shampoo spray. Made of flexible rubber, it costs only $2.89.

Worried or puzzled about your dreams? Have you ever wondered what they mean? Well the meanings of 1,500 different dreams are explained for you in the "Complete Dream Book," which sells locally for $1.25. Dreams are listed alphabetically. The book interprets love and good luck dreams and gives strange prophecies. Whether you read this book seriously, or just for fun... you'll find it fascinating. It could be great at a party, don't you think?

Chase the birds from your precious fruit trees with strips of tinfoil which rattle and dazzle in the sunlight. They say it does the trick! It's worth a try, at any rate, folks, for a packet of the strips costs only 49 cents.

"Punkinhead" belts are the cutest accessories for little girls that I've seen in my travels for a long time. On the red, white or green elastic waist cinchers, she'll find Punkinhead going through some of his crazy antics. I'll bet she's always wanted a waist cincher... just like mommy's, so now's the time. I've a feeling they won't last long, for they are so attractive and reasonably priced... just 89 cents!

AS WE LIVE

The Aged Resent
Having to Readjust

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When people grow old they like to spend the remaining years of their lives in familiar surroundings. Transplanting them to a new environment rarely works. That is why the woman who wrote the following letter should not urge her parents to move. She says:

(Q)—"Four years ago my last sister moved here with the rest of us sisters. This hurt my parents who live about 65 miles away. But we were all sure that they would move here too. About a year later my mother had to have a major operation which was done about 20 miles from where we live. She convalesced at our homes. My father was so upset that we helped him to look for a home near us. But he found something wrong with every house we looked at and he says he hates to leave the home and garden he has had for so many years. If my mother didn't need help we would forget about them. But once a month one of us has to get her and take her to a check-up. We take turns visiting them every Sunday as they say they get so lonesome. All of us are getting so tired of making these trips. Don't you think we are right in thinking our folks should come to live near us?"

(A)—No, I think you are wrong in wanting to transplant your parents at this time. If they had been willing to move 20 years ago that would be a different story. But now that they are getting along in years they want to remain in the familiar surroundings of their earlier life. Don't try to force them out of where they feel they belong.

It is a burden and a great responsibility for all of you to have your parents so far away. But if this is what they want and if this is what will make them happy, make the sacrifices needed to give them this happiness. A time may come when they will realize that they must move but, so long as they can manage where they are without too much help from their children, let them stay.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's best psychologists and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

Aluminum is either "spun" or "cast," the former being found in lightweight kitchen utensils, and the latter in heavier ones such as roasters and fryers.

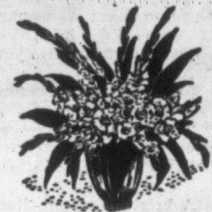

When dusting walls, be careful to avoid streaking. You won't streak if you change or reverse cloths or your broom often as you dust or make sure your vacuum cleaner attachment is clean.

Six to eight pounds of clothes makes a safe average washer load. Clothes won't wash clean if you overload.

You can hold eggs together while poaching by adding a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice to the cooking water.

Daughter of Montreal Greek Family Versatile; Keen Red Cross Worker

MONTREAL—All of us at some time or another have contributed time, money, or both to a charitable organization. But to pretty 25-year-old Marika Salamis (Mar-eka Slam-is) the Canadian Red Cross Corps is a way of life, almost a family tradition.

That's because her parents, who left their native Greece almost 30 years ago, to immigrate to Montreal, have long and grateful memories. During all this time, the elder Salamis have been doing Red Cross work, so it seems only natural that their only daughter would follow in their footsteps. In 1941, Mr. Salamis became national secretary to the Greek War Relief Fund, and also headed the Greek section of the Canadian Red Cross.

RECEIVED MEDAL
Together with his wife, Salamis did concrete work that not only helped Greeks here and overseas, but Canadians who were in need of help. So Marika, as a child, heard talk of the Red Cross work "at breakfast, dinner and supper." But her father asserts that "Marika is a Red Cross worker on her own merits, although we admit we may have passed our enthusiasm on to her."

Today, this young Canadian more than proves her father's words. She was recently presented with the Greek Red Cross medal, given her in recognition of her helpful assistance to the Greek delegation, at last year's International Red Cross conference in Toronto.

Although the slim auburn-haired girl officially joined the Montreal branch of the Red Cross only a year ago, her voluntary working hours have piled up enormously. Her record shows that she has already completed almost 300 hours for the Red Cross, representing more than 350 duty hours, and 130 hours learning Red Cross courses.

"Marika is a fine Red Cross worker, with a thoroughly pleasant manner," said a Red Cross official, and many veteran shut-ins at Montreal's Queen Mary Hospital eagerly endorse that statement too.

She recently completed her training as a VAD at the Neurological Institute, and also graduated from the home nursing and motor mechanics course. Beside all this, she is a full-time business girl, for when she left MacDonald College, her father, who is a professional engineer, employed her as his private secretary.

Marika is tri-lingual and when called to duty recently by the organization, she left her home at 5:45 a.m. for Dorval to meet a plane on which a mother and her two children were arriving from South Africa. While awaiting for the plane to land she observed the plight of another new arrival, a Greek woman who was in difficulties over her luggage, and was beginning to get frantic, being unable to speak either English or French.

Marika came to her rescue and ironed out the woman's troubles. Then she waited for her own assigned party to arrive. She got them settled, and then went off to do a full day's work at the office. In the evening, she went on duty at Queen Mary's Hospital.

She likes to be on call by the Red Cross at all times — and often is. Yet she still finds

600,000 Carpenters Withdraw From AFL

CHICAGO (UP)—The powerful carpenters' union pulled its 600,000 members out of the American Federation of Labor Wednesday night in protest against AFL endorsement of a "no-raiding" pact with the CIO.

The endorsement was made by the policy-making AFL executive council.

Only a few hours later Maurice A. Hutcheson, general president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, informed AFL president George Meany that his union was walking out.

Hutcheson charged there is more raiding in the AFL than between the AFL and CIO, and that the federation failed to cope with its own internal troubles.

The council endorsement of a no-raiding truce with the CIO was only a recommendation submitted to the AFL.

$35 MILLION FIRE RAZES GN PLANT

Two Killed In Blaze

DETROIT (UP)—Two persons were killed and an estimated 20 others injured Wednesday when flames touched off by a spark from a welder's torch leveled a mammoth, $35,000,000 General Motors Corp. plant.

The flames raced along an oil-soaked conveyor belt and within four hours left a building housing the GM transmission plant and part of the firm's Terstedt division a heap of charred and twisted rubble.

Authorities at the scene had said earlier that other victims might have been caught and burned to death in the block-square building. However, late in the evening, after a check of a good share of the burned-out hulk, they said apparently only two persons died.

The fire was punctuated by a series of sharp explosions, leading some authorities to believe the flames had been started by a blast in the paint shop. However, they said the explosions apparently came as the flames reached cylinders of gas and acid stored in the building.

The flames started in the transmission plant but quickly spread to another part of the brick building housing part of the Terstedt division. Firemen said the only part of the building in suburban Livonia they could possibly save was the office section at the front of the structure.

State police estimated damage at $35,000,000. However, one plant official who asked that his name not be used, said it might climb as high as $70,000,000.

The flames raced rapidly over oil-soaked wood floors, which had been treated with creosote, a highly inflammable preservative, when they were laid.

More than 300 firemen, the majority of them volunteers from small Wayne County towns, battled the flames with hoses left nearly limp by the low water pressure in the area.

KILLED BY ARROW

RIFLE, Colo. (AP)—Jack Allen Porter, 11, was killed—shot through the heart by an arrow—in an accident Wednesday.

Coroner Wayne Burdge said the boy was retrieving arrows shot into bales of hay by Ronnie Cole, 14.

DEATH TOLL

The embassy said U.S. air force bases in Germany and Tripoli were ordered to send helicopters to transfer refugees to the mainland.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean fleet, flew to Zante to take charge of British rescue operations. Ten British warships were ordered to the area.

The first British ship to reach the disaster region was the destroyer Durand which brought four doctors and 15 nurses. Its skipper, Capt. P. D. Dick, reported that Argostolion was "completely destroyed."

The British skipper said that more than 50,000 persons in the Argostolion area alone were without food or water.

Some reports said entire inland villages were swallowed up in huge fissures. Landslides sent whole neighborhoods sliding into the sea.

Tidal waves swept the port of Vathy, capital of Ithaca, the legendary kingdom of Odysseus of Homer's epic poem "Odyssey."

Eyewitnesses said the disaster looked "Like the end of the world."

Many of the survivors were gripped with what the Red Cross called "disaster shock," and refused to leave their homes.

Alex Galanopoulos, professor of seismology at Athens University, said the earthquakes centered in a rupture of the sea floor in the two-mile-wide channel between Cephalonia and Ithaca.

He said such quakes were expected, having occurred in the Ithaca area in 1869, 1912, 1915 and 1948. But he said their time and severity could not be predicted.

George Kormilas, correspondent of the newspaper Kathimerini, said "There is a landslides every minute."

"The situation is one of panic," Kormilas said.

Kormilas' brief statement confirmed radio reports from rescue vessels that "people live in a state of madness."

V. Multos, Zante's deputy minister, sent to Athens a four-word cable that told the story of death and destruction.

"Zante does not exist," the cablegram said.

Terror-stricken survivors who had seen their loved ones crushed to death by crumbling walls or swallowed by the earth crowded the beaches awaiting evacuation.

Warships sent to the stricken islands gave first priority to the injured.

"Pilots flying over the devastated area said the picture reminded them of photographs of Hiroshima after the atom bomb had been dropped."

The first group of 300 evacuees arriving at the Greek port of Piraeus described the horror.

"I was in our bakery," said Christos Spyros of Sami, on the island of Cephalonia.

"Suddenly I heard a buzz coming through the earth, something like thunder," Spyros, hospitalized with a broken knee, said. "A shock followed, like an explosion under my feet."

"I saw my father two yards away killed by a falling wall. I could not help because he was buried under debris. I cried for help. People came and helped me out."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Meniere's Disease Usually Strikes After Age 45 Years

"I have a friend," writes Mrs. J. S., "who has what the doctors call Meniere's disease. She has had it for some six or seven years and is deaf in one ear. The other ear has a continual buzzing and ringing in it. Its cause is believed to be a dropsy in the deep portion of the ear called the labyrinth."

Matchmakers Having Woes With Margaret

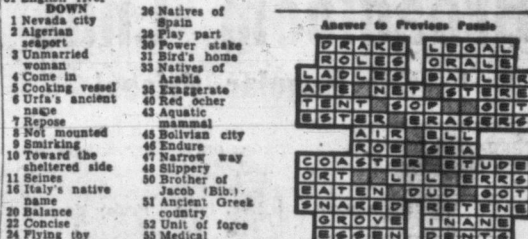

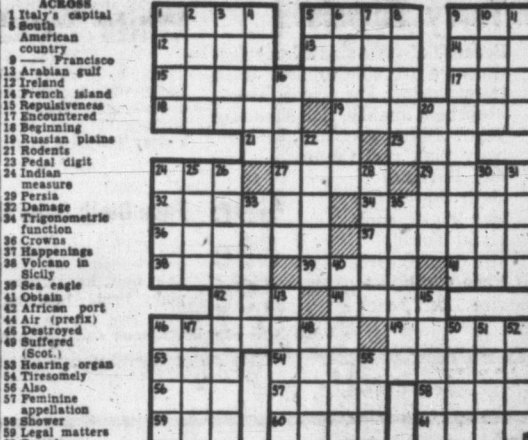

LONDON (BUP)—Princess Margaret reaches the ripe age of 23—that's old for unmarried royalty—a week from Friday and this nation of unofficial matchmakers is having a tough time picking a suitable mate. Queen Elizabeth, her sister, is throwing a birthday luncheon for Margaret and there will be dancing that night at Balmoral Castle. If the pretty little princess dances more than once with any of the eligibles present it will set the whole country's tongues wagging.

Those in court circles who consider the Townsend affair over point out there are many eligibles. They include Lord Carnarvon, Lord (Porchy) Portchester, 27, son of the Earl of Carnarvon and an American mother, Catherine Wendell, of New York; Peter Ward, son of the Earl of Dudley; Lord Plunkett, 28, another handsome member of the Royal household; Captain Tom Egerton, member of a rich land-owning family, and two or three others.

UNHAPPY TIME The Townsend-Margaret rumors have given the royal family an unhappy time. Palace sources have been busy denying them.

They pointed out in connection with the most recent story—that two members of the royal household had been fired because of the romance—that Ruby MacDonald was still maid to Princess Margaret and that there never had been a head of the royal stables named Ferguson.

The story alleged that Miss MacDonald had been dismissed for telling Queen Elizabeth about the affair. The story added that Ferguson had supplied horses for trysts in Windsor Great Park.

HERE'S THAT 'THING' AGAIN

Slimy 3-Toed Monster Alligator, Chief Swears

NEW HAMBURG, Ont. (BUP)—Police Chief George Thomas had the mystery of the "slimy three-toed monster" solved Wednesday night, but it didn't help much.

Chief Thomas swore it was an alligator, and no one ever reported an alligator in Canada before.

"This is no baloney," the chief said emphatically. "It's been seen twice just this last week, and we are definitely sure now. This thing's an alligator."

He said three people whose word he trusted all the way had seen the "monster," and said it was the same as alligators they'd seen in Florida and other warmer climes.

The Encyclopedia Britannica lists an "alligator mississippiensis" found in the Southern United States, and another species in China. Chief Thomas just shrugged.

Museum and zoo officials, he said, would not come up to look for the thing because they thought the flurry of publicity a month ago was high power town-boasting.

The little German community made a national magazine. A cartoonist accompanied a story with a sketch of a dinosaur-scale monster being ridden Wild West style by policemen.

NORTH KOREAN LEADERS IMPOSTERS

South Korean Reveals Kim, Nam Borrowed Names of Heroes

SEOUL (AP)—Marshal Kim Il Sung and Gen. Nam Il, the two men who emerged as kingpins in the newly-purged North Korean Communist regime, were revealed today to be "fantastic imposters" who borrowed their names from well-known North Koreans of years ago.

The information came from a South Korean intelligence officer with excellent connections in North Korea.

Kim's role as an imposter who borrowed the name of a North Korean hero who fought the Japanese during the occupation of Korea has been known for some time.

But for the first time it was revealed that Nam Il, chief Red negotiator in the truce talks at Panmunjom, also borrowed the name of a prominent North Korean.

Here is the story as detailed by the intelligence officer: Kim's real name was Kim Sung Joo. He was born 42 years ago in a small village near the Red capital of Pyongyang, the son of an anti-Japanese nationalist.

During the Second World War Kim commanded a Korean army corps that fought along side the Russians.

In the battle of Leningrad, he won special recognition from Stalin.

Kim arrived at Nam-hi, his birthplace, in September, 1945, carrying secret instructions from Stalin on how to Communize Korea.

He adopted the name of Kim Il Sung, a Korean patriot who had been fighting the Japanese as a guerrilla in Manchuria.

The real Kim Il Sung was then about 53 years old; the imposter about 34.

In October, 1945, the bogus Kim was introduced as a "victorious general" to more than 200,000 North Koreans assembled at a parade ground in Pyongyang.

The story of Nam Il's life revealed that his real name was Kim Chang Man. He now is about 47. He was born in a small Korean village near Pyongyang.

Nam Il was propaganda chief of the North Korean Labor Communist party until he was appointed chief truce delegate for the Reds in July, 1951.

He was not a general. He appeared at the Kaesong and Panmunjom truce negotiations first under a title of lieutenant-general and later as a full general.

The real Nam Il is a man about 50, trained in Russia. He was president of a Communist college in Pyongyang and also an instructor at the Kim Il Sung University there.

The real Kim Il Sung now is reported dead. Nothing could be learned about the status or whereabouts of the original Nam Il.

However, Peiping radio said the Geneva Convention provides that prisoners facing "criminal proceedings for an indictable offense... may be detained until the end of such proceedings, and, if necessary, until the completion of the punishment. The same shall apply to prisoners... already convicted."

Third Canadian PW Gets Release Friday

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Another 400 prisoners of the Communists became free men at this dusty village today even as the Reds warned ominously that they have the right to hold back Allied prisoners facing or serving jail terms.

The Reds also disclosed that a third Canadian will be among the 400 Allied prisoners to be exchanged Friday. The first two Canadians were Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., and Gnr. Orval Jenkins of Hamilton and Toronto.

Prisoners freed today in the ninth day of the PW exchange were 75 Britons, 75 Americans and 250 South Koreans.

Meanwhile, Red China's warning backed stories from returning prisoners that buddies had been left behind, sentenced to jail for terms up to three years by the Reds on such charges as "instigating against peace."

U.S. State Secretary Dulles warned the Communists Tuesday that the UN command would not return Red captives convicted of crimes "until we know the attitude of the Communists toward ours." He said the UNC wanted all PWs returned.

However, Peiping radio said the Geneva Convention provides that prisoners facing "criminal proceedings for an indictable offense... may be detained until the end of such proceedings, and, if necessary, until the completion of the punishment. The same shall apply to prisoners... already convicted."

540 Million Bushel Wheat Crop Forecast

3rd Straight Bumper Harvest for Canada

WINNIPEG (CP)—Western Canada in the next six weeks will harvest its third consecutive bumper wheat crop, slightly more than 540,000,000 bushels, if the weather remains good, the Winnipeg Free Press and Tribune preliminary estimates agreed today.

The Prairie grain picture was hampered at the outset as spring seeding was delayed by heavy rains in many areas until late in June. However, remarkable progress has been made in the last six weeks.

The Free Press predicts a wheat crop of 542,000,000 bushels, exceeded only by last year's record 664,000,000 bushels and 1928's 545,000,000.

The Tribune, however, calls for a wheat crop of 547,000,000 bushels, which would make it the second largest in history.

The Free Press says wheat will go 22.6 bushels an acre this year, compared with 26 in 1952 and the 10-year average 1943-52 of 17.7 bushels.

If prospects are realized, wheat production on the Prairies will be (1952 figures in brackets): Manitoba 45,000,000 (57,000,000) bushels; Saskatchewan 353,000,000 (435,000,000), and Alberta 144,000,000 (172,000,000).

The Free Press says coarse grains also are expected to show heavy yields, with production of all grains totalling 1,119,000,000 bushels compared with last year's 1,335,000,000.

Wheat prices fell seven cents to $1.75 per bushel, lowest since January, 1947, at Chicago this forenoon but later recovered all except a fraction of the loss.

Toronto Detectives Remain Critical After Wild Chase

TORONTO (UP)—Two members of the Toronto detective force lay in critical condition in a hospital today while two of the youths they were chasing in a stolen car were charged with trying to murder them.

A third youth was killed when the detectives' cruiser and the stolen car crashed into a row of store fronts in the heart of Toronto Wednesday. The crash up climaxed a running gun battle through the city's streets.

Blood Bank Still Behind Objective

Red Cross mobile blood clinic is still operating behind its quota on the third day of the four-day drive.

Only 242 persons responded to the appeal Wednesday to bring the two-day total to 408.

At least 1,000 pints are needed by Friday night. Today is the last day at Red Cross House on Fort Street. The clinic goes to the B.C. Forest Products plant all day Friday. Clinic is open tonight from 7 to 9.30.

TIMES STORY GOT ACTION

Victoria Boy Happy As Lost Bike Returned

Ten-year-old Allie Bowditch was downhearted Wednesday, but he is happy today, thanks to a story in the Times and quick action by good-hearted citizens.

Allie's bike was stolen Monday while he was working as a caddy. And Allie told the Times he'd have no job if his bike weren't returned.

When his plight was reported, B. White, member of the Victoria Elks Club, offered to replace the bike if it was not found.

But his generous offer was not needed. J. Griffin of Florence Street, spotted the bike, and by 6 o'clock it was returned to its owner.

QUEEN SENDS SYMPATHY NOTE TO GREEK PEOPLE

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth sent a message of "sincere sympathy" to the people of Greece today.

She said she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh—a former Greek prince—were "deeply distressed" to learn of the disastrous earthquakes there.

The Queen's message, sent to King Paul of Greece, said: "My husband and I are deeply distressed to hear of the loss of life and damage to property caused by the earthquakes in your western islands. We send our sincere sympathy to all those of your people who have suffered through this disaster."

EPIDEMIC FEARED

Paris Streets Garbage-Lined

4 Million on Strike; 10,000 Tourists Stranded; Laniel Firm

From CP and UP Dispatches

PARIS—The crippling series of strikes in state-operated industries in France spread to government offices and some sections of private industry today, taking some 4,000,000 workers from their jobs.

The strike of postal, telephone and telegraph workers went into its ninth day. Paris was without bus or subway service for the second straight day. The railway strike was in its third day. Bank and insurance clerks walked off the job today and so did workers in metal industries, including automobile factories. A few department store workers went out.

Hoarding and the fear of epidemics were added today to the hardships.

Garbage was rotting in the gutters of the normally gay, tree-lined boulevards and in front of the swank hotels of Paris. The hot and humid air reeked.

French public health officials warned that the strike of garbage collectors, coupled with a walkout of morticians, faced France with the serious danger of epidemics.

TRANSPORT STOPPED

All public transport and utilities have been paralyzed and thousands of tourists—including 10,000 Americans—are stranded.

Frugal French housewives were hoarding food, threatening a further squeeze on an estimated 100,000 tourists who already were reduced to eating box lunches.

Gasoline also was disappearing from the market, with indications that fuel hoarding might halt the scanty, makeshift transportation, still available.

The "holiday visitors" were scrambling for any possible means to flee the chaotic tourist playgrounds of France.

Printers and other mechanical newspaper workers announced a 24-hour strike and said no newspapers would appear in France on Monday.

Marseille, France's second largest city, was without public transport today.

BANKS CLOSED

In Lyons, banks were hit by a stoppage and cheques could not be cashed. Metal workers came out and army trucks and private buses took over the city's transport.

As the wave of demoralizing strikes went into the ninth day, Laniel, a millionaire textile industrialist who learned to fight in the wartime French underground, stuck his chin out and said he would not yield.

The walkouts were sparked by disclosure that the government's program for rescuing the treasury from near-bankruptcy included lopping some employees off public payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants.

Workers also were angered that Laniel's plan did not put a heavier tax bite on the wealthy. The Communists chimed in with calls for a general wage boost.

The premier hinted the government would not make any reforms as long as the strikes continue.

Commons Will Meet Again in Mid-November

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet in its first post-election meeting decided tentatively today that Parliament will be called into session in mid-November.

Mr. St. Laurent said here the next full cabinet meeting will be Sept. 6. Meanwhile, the prime minister was leaving today for a post-election holiday at his summer home near St. Patrick, Que.

Mr. St. Laurent said a number of matters will stand over until the September meeting.

One of these was the question of a five-day week for all civil service workers. The present situation, he said, will continue at least until September.

Mr. St. Laurent also said cabinet has not had a chance to deal with an eight-province appeal from last spring's freight rate increase of seven per cent.

It had not dealt, either, with an application from Canadian Pacific Airlines for a franchise to fly trans-continental freight in competition with the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Liberals to Fight B.C. By-Elections

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said in Victoria today his party definitely will contest the forthcoming by-elections when Premier Bennett will endeavor to seat Finance Minister Einar Gunderson and Education Minister Tilly Rolsdon.

Mr. Laing and Gordon Gibson, Lillooet M.L.A., were in Victoria this morning to be sworn into office by E. K. DeBeck, clerk of the Legislature.

Hopes have been expressed in some government quarters that the two ministers would be allowed the seats by acclamation.

NO CROSSWORD WINNER; PRIZE MONEY JUMPS

After two weeks running in which there were three winners, Times crosswords ran into trouble with Puzzle No. 20, and not a single correct solution was submitted. The "toughies" were No. 12 down, where "cut" rather than "cat" was the answer to "If dangerous might need to be watched very carefully" and No. 24 down, where "sons" rather than "song" best fitted the definition "If cheerful can make for a happy atmosphere in the home."

Since there was no winner, Puzzle No. 21, appearing tomorrow, will be worth $50, plus the $50 bonus if the winner is a regular subscriber. Correct answer to Puzzle No. 20 is on page 18.

Did Launch Sink off Dallas Rd.? Times Offers Reward for Proof

The purported explosion and sinking of a 30-foot launch off Clover Point early Wednesday morning remained just as much a mystery as ever today and the question around Victoria's waterfront was "Who's pulling whose leg?"

According to news reports carried by the morning paper and radio stations a "John McLean of Victoria" and John Turnbull and his wife of Seattle were blown into the water by the blast and rescued by a man in a rowboat from Shoal Bay, one mile away.

'Like End of the World' Eyewitnesses Say

ATHENS, Greece (UP)—Twenty-two new tremors shook the fabled Ionian Islands today and mountains have been split open, and entire neighborhoods swept into the sea in the worst earthquake in modern Greek history.

Rescue ships from the U.S. Sixth Fleet and British vessels from the Mediterranean squadron rushed to the almost-dead islands of Cephalonia, Ithaca and Zante as the estimated death toll rose above 500.

All estimates of casualties are sketchy. Destruction is so great it will be days or weeks before all bodies are found.

Mountains have been split open and are sinking as if great volcanoes had exploded, George Lydias of the newspaper Vradyni reported from the desolated Cephalonian capital of Argostolion today.

"People mad with fear are throwing themselves into the sea," his colleague, John Voutsinas, said.

Both men witnessed the violent convulsions of the earth which were climaxed today when the destroyed remains of the capital of the island of Cephalonia were partially swept into the sea by a landslide.

"The whole earth is shaking with a terrible underground noise," Lydias said.

"Mountains are splitting open, then sinking as if volcanoes had exploded."

"The earth split open and many parts of houses were hurled great distances."

"Furniture and bits of doors and windows sang through the air. Church bells in rocking steeples pealed irregularly and heart-piercing cries came from injured, some of them running through the streets, some trying to pull themselves or their relatives from the wreckage."

"The people are pale with terror, eyes dilated, with cold expressions of living death."

(Sea captains off Cephalonia said the continuous earth shocks sent up "geysers of dust" that looked like the explosions of bombs.)

A message from the British destroyer Daring, off Argostolion, said the ship was being jolted by the continual tremors "as if it were being depth-charged."

On Cephalonia, the cities of Lixouri, Sami and Aghia Efthymia, as well as Argostolion, were in ruins.

The mainland cities of Patras and Missolonghi, where the English poet Lord Byron died fighting for Greek independence, were hard hit.

The British cruiser Gambia reported that fires were raging through what was left of the ruined port of Zante, capital of the island of that name.

The U.S.S. Salem, Sixth Fleet flagship, reached Argostolion with medical teams, hospital supplies, food, water and two helicopters.

The U.S. embassy here put the whole Sixth Fleet at the disposal of the Greek government if needed for rescue operations.

FREIGHT RATE DISPARITY

Persistent Fight Has Two Bases

(This is the second article in a public-service series by Victoria times business editor E. McLean.)

Disparity in railway freight rate schedules applicable to Victoria and Vancouver is the cross—and the fight—of every Victorian.

Greater Victoria's business leaders of generations as far apart as 1907 and 1953 have fought tooth-and-nail whenever freight rates applicable to shipments between Victoria and points east of Hope have been higher than Vancouver's tariffs. In 1907 angered businessmen induced the CPR to grant Victoria parity. It is essential to day's fight to regain parity, lost in 1949, also be successful.

There are two reasons for Victoria's bitter opposition to disparity between Vancouver and Victoria freight rate schedules.

The first is historic, the other economic.

Historically, Victoria had freight-rate parity with Vancouver from Nov. 25, 1907, until July 1, 1949. Victoria Chamber of Commerce (it was the Board of Trade 46 years ago) won that concession after a long, at times bitter argument. (This tale from the past will be told in a subsequent article in this series.)

During that period, as Mayor Claude L. Harrison emphasized at the Board of Transport Commissioners hearing here last March, "many industries located in Victoria on the assumption parity would prevail" always.

But on July 1, 1949, the railways, conforming to a Board of Transport Commission order, issued a new schedule of rates.

(It is contended by Victoria Chamber of Commerce, on reasonably sound grounds, that the railways misinterpreted the intent of the Transport Board's order; this argument will be outlined in a later article.)

The consequent increased freight rates from and to Victoria, compared with Vancouver, are an extreme hardship to local firms, particularly those which "export" their production. In some instances the existence here of the enterprises is jeopardized.

Most manufacturing firms here are caught both ways. They pay more freight charges than their Vancouver competitors on the raw materials they bring in, and they pay more to send the finished products to the great consumer markets in the east.

Today, they just cannot compete price-wise, or, alternatively, they must pinch every penny of other outlay to gain the minimum of profit that would justify their investment in capital and effort.
